School Officials Seek Temporary Rooms For Some 800 Students

(International News Service)
IRWIN, Pa., Jan. 23.—While public school officials moved to provide temporary facilities for 800 school pupils the local fire department launched an extensive investigation to determine cause of the blaze which completely destroyed the 20-room brick building on Chestnut street, with a loss estimated by Fire Chief Charles S. Guy, Jr., at $200,000.

Three firemen were injured while fighting the conflagration which also badly damaged the home occupied by William Hamilton, school janitor, and owned by the school district of Irwin which adjoins the main building.

Firemen were successful in saving the homes of Benjamin Steel and Taylor Kunkle, also adjoining the school building by keeping a continual stream of water playing on the dwellings which were damaged somewhat by the water.

Three injured
William Edwards, 27, of Westmoreland City, truck driver for the Westmoreland City fire department, was rendered unconscious when a cap was blown off the chemical tank of the company's truck.

PA NEW OBSERVES

A motorist friend asks Pa New to draw to the attention of the city street force a deep depression in the asphalt covering East street, at the North street intersection. It resulted from the North street paving operations, but ought to be fixed now.

Those who haven't heard about it ought to be informed—that's about the coming Boy Scout election. Boy Scout candidates are now soliciting votes from their brother scouts in an effort to win the "model election," which promises to be a whiz. There'll be a scout mayor, scout judges, sheriff, councilmen and everything under boy-rule for an hour on February 12.

The haze which blanketed the downtown area this morning made a person feel anything but peppy. It cleared up later.

Few ever stop to realize that New Castle, for a city its size, probably has the finest array of church organs and organists that could be found in a city of like size. One of these days the First Presbyterian will have a new console, while the First Christian is now having a new one installed.

DAISY DEVOE JURY IS STILL DEADLOCKED

By LYLE ABBOTT
International News Service Staff Correspondent
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23.—The jury trying Daisy Devoe on charges of embezzling from Clara Bow, the screen star, went into its third day of stubborn battle for a verdict today with a second reading of Miss Devoe's sensational alleged confession ringing in its ears.
Three times during the night the seven men and five women faced Judge William C. Doran in court and sought his help to balance the scales between the "It" girl of the movies and her blonde former secretary.
The jury at first reported it was "unable to agree upon a verdict," Judge Doran, without comment, sent the jurors back for further deliberation.

Always confident that she would never be compelled to pass through prison gates as a result of Miss Bow's theft charges, Miss Devoe passed from serene faith to almost exuberant joy today.
She was so sure the jury could not reach a verdict that she began mapping plans for her future.
In the event of a mistrial, that future may hold a second court ordeal for Miss Devoe in the next few weeks.
"I am almost 'happy now,'" Miss Devoe told friends. "Of course I have suffered deeply during the weeks since this trouble came up, but I still think my stars hold happier destiny than prison for me."

Republicans Are Uneasy Regarding Hoover's "Stand"

Furore Kicked Up By Wickersham Report Continues To Rage Unabated

BONE DRIES ARE HIGHLY PLEASED
Friends Of President Hoover Insist That He Has "An Open Mind"

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The furore kicked up by the Wickersham report continued to rage unabated around President Hoover's head today, while the growling and uneasy factions of his own party sought to pull and haul him in their several directions.

The out-and-out wets in the party and also the moderates, are agitated at the thought of what Mr. Hoover's bone dry message to congress may do to Republican chances in the east next year if, as is expected, the Democrats go anti-prohibition in platform and candidate.

"An Open Mind"
They are urging Mr. Hoover to act high public interest still is at high pitch and issue a public statement to the effect that he still has "an open mind" concerning revision of the 18th amendment, notwithstanding his curt rejection of the only method of revision proposed.

Aged Spinsters Are Found Dead Near Washington

Two Sisters More Than 80 Years Old, Are Found Dead In Their Home

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Pa. Jan. 23.—Ending lives of loneliness and sisterly care, death today claimed two aged spinster sisters, both more than 80 years old. Their bodies were found by a clerk who made deliveries of groceries to their isolated farm, near here.

Cassie and Sara Allen had lived recluses on their small farm for more than 20 years, and as they died so they lived. The story of their devotion for each other, which in life meant untiring care for one another, was intensified by the details, as much as they can be gathered of the manner on their death. Although they died alone, the coroner's report revealed that, apparently, one sister became ill, necessitating treatment by the other. No doctor was called. It was while administering to her needs, the coroner's report disclosed, that the other aged woman was stricken. Then, from the way the tragedy of loneliness was reconstructed, the sister who first became ill, died from lack of care and nourishment.
Further details of their deaths were not available. They had been accustomed to isolation from society for so long that no one was near when the last act of their unusual, self-sacrificing lives was enacted.

Leaders Delay Appropriation For Red Cross

House Leaders Decide To Hold Hearings—Postponement Of Two Weeks Seen

PLAN TO EXAMINE FOOD AMENDMENT
Are Prepared In House To Make Compromise With Senate If Necessary

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Final action on the Senate's proposal to appropriate $25,000,000 for Red Cross drought relief may be postponed for two weeks as a result of the decision of House leaders to have the appropriations committee hold hearings, it appeared today.

Plans for an examination of the food amendment to the interior department supply bill, as well as other important amendments affecting the department, were to be decided today by Rep. Wood (R) of Indiana, chairman of the appropriations committee, and Rep. Cramton (R) of Michigan, in direct charge of the bill.

Charges Are Made
The supply bill, with its controversial amendment, may be permitted to lie untouched on the speaker's table pending the action of the appropriations committee.

Backers of the direct food appropriation have charged that House leaders hope to kill the Robinson amendment by delaying action until the Red Cross has completed its nationwide drive for $10,000,000 for drought-relief.

Chairman John Barton Payne is expected to be called regarding the food amendment, along with Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, who will give a report of the workings of the seed and feed loan and submit surveys of conditions in the drought area by his agents.

House leaders, it was indicated, are prepared to make a compromise on the $25,000,000 amendment in conference with the Senate if necessary.

School Board To Gather Tuesday

Following a custom established some months ago, the New Castle School Board will hold another informal meeting on Tuesday evening, January 27, in the George Washington Junior High School. Dinner will be served at six o'clock in the dining room of the school, and following it, Dr. Green will discuss the "Superior Education."
These informal meetings are for the purpose of acquainting the board members with the progress of the school system, something not always possible in the press of routine matters in the formal board meetings.
Board members have found them to be profitable and they are now a regular part of the official life of the schools.

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—What was accepted for a time as a successful $10,000 railroad station holdup was revealed today as a hoax by Herbert E. Smith, ticket agent, according to his admissions to police.

(International News Service)
ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 23.—Governors of seven Eastern states were to assemble here at noon today for a three-day session to map a far-reaching program coordinating governmental agencies to guard against future industrial depressions and consequent unemployment conditions.

In inviting the executives of six other states to confer with him Governor Roosevelt expressed conviction there was much that could be done if states would cooperate toward prevention of a repetition of present conditions.

Are Doing Best
"I believe that Eastern states are doing their best now to relieve present conditions but the important thing is to plan against future recurrence," Roosevelt said.

Chief executives invited to the conference by Roosevelt were Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, Norman S. Chase of Rhode Island, Wilbur L. Cross of Connecticut, Morgan L. Larson of New Jersey, George White of Ohio and Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania.
The latest data on the subjects to be considered by the governors will be laid before the conference by a group of noted economic and industrial experts.

At 3 a. m. yesterday the bandits, heavily armed and masked, roused the sleeping passengers and herded them to one end of the coach and robbed them of $2500.

The robbery completed, the bandits swung from the train as it approached this city and disappeared.

Volant Exhibit Awarded Prizes

Brenneman's Cattle Take Prizes In State Farm Show

Lawrence county cattle led the way in the State Farm Products show, according to a telegram received today from County Farm Agent Harold R. McCulloch who is an official in the show. Charles E. Brenneman of Volant, well known cattle breeder, took practically all the prizes offered in the short horn division.

In the male short horn competition Mr. Brenneman's cattle took junior and grand champion for males in the senior calf division, also junior and grand champion for females in summer yearling heifer class, and in addition was awarded first prize for the best aged herd in the show.

While the announcement of the honors is gratifying to Lawrence county citizens, it is not altogether surprising. Visitors to the Farm Products show early in the week ventured the opinion that Mr. Brenneman had a display that looked like certain prize winners. The display attracted much attention in the show and thousands stopped to admire the Lawrence county cattle.

Pittsburgh Man Declares Ballot Tampering Seen

Testifies In Probe Of Primary In Allegheny County At Washington

PHANTOM MARKS SEEN ON BALLOTS

More Ballots Obtained Than Allowed By Law It Is Charged

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Somebody tampered with some of the ballots cast in Allegheny county in Pennsylvania's primary election last summer, H. W. Bennett, of Pittsburgh, told the senate campaign funds investigating committee today, at its inquiry into the campaign expenditures of Senator James J. Davis, (R) of Pennsylvania.

Bennett, who was supervisor of the county's election recount board, testified he noticed "phantom X marks" on ballots contained in 64 boxes that were recounted.

"As a whole the recount made little difference but in some districts there was quite a large gain or loss," he said.

Davis lost 95 votes in the recount of the 64 boxes while Senator Joseph R. Grundy (R) his opponent, also lost 41 votes, Bennett said. "There was nothing to indicate fraud," asked Senator Nye (R) of N. D. committee chairman.

Looks Like Tampering
"I would say negligence rather than fraud. I do not make any accusations but it looked like somebody had tampered with the ballots in some of the boxes."

Bennett's attention was called to the "phantom" cross marks noted on the tabulated sheet of the recount given the committee. He explained.

Mrs. Essie Stimpson was a speculator in land. For a long time her eye had been on a certain piece that she desired. One day she approached the owner of it, and in time they struck a bargain for its sale. Mrs. Essie was to pay one-half the selling price in cash and she executed a promissory note, payable on a stated date, for the remainder. At the same time the owner of the land executed and delivered to Mrs. Essie a bond which stated that he would give her title to the land when the note for the balance of the purchase was paid. Meanwhile Mrs. Essie took possession of the land.

But soon the owner got into difficulties in some other business transaction and assigned Mrs. Essie's note to one Harold Crome. Now Crome was a man strictly of business. What he wanted was cash and not the note, and so at once he set about to get the cash. But Mrs. Essie wasn't prepared to pay just then, so Crome sued.

plained the marks indicated "either the election board or the voters" had obtained more ballots than the election laws permitted.

"It shows," he said, "that a ballot was marked on top of another one and the 'phantom' marking could be seen through the paper was so thin that the voters' mark could be plainly seen on eight or ten ballots on the pad."

"Yes, but a voter has no business having more than one ballot," Nye said.

"That is true."

Nye also brought out that the election officer had no authority to have a pencil Bennett refused to prefer fraud charges.

$84,000 Spent in County

Harry L. Perry, of Pittsburgh, treasurer of the Allegheny county Board-Brown (Frances Shunk Brown, gubernatorial candidate) committee, testified yesterday that $84,000 was spent in Allegheny county in behalf of the ticket. Today Nye endeavored to show that the county was more interested in the nomination of Davis for senator than Brown for governor, but Perry asserted:

"We were for the entire ticket." Senator Davis frequently prompted his attorney, Joseph E. Davies, to object to several of Nye's questions because they were irrelevant and Nye declared:

"I am trying to find out for whom the money was spent."

Perry insisted the money went for the entire ticket.

Ralph H. Frank, of Pittsburgh, testified as one "whose job it was to see that the recount board treated Pinchot fairly." (Gifford Pinchot defeated Brown in the gubernatorial election.)

Agrees With Bennett

He said he agreed with Bennett's testimony as to the recount but differed from his conclusions regarding the "phantom" markings.

"The existence of phantom markings," he said, "is irreconcilable with honesty in the election board. In one case there were 100 such ballots out of 300."

He said that the recount did not reveal fraud because it might coincide with the result shown by the election board.

"But there is no explanation for the phantom markings consistent with reasonable honesty of the election board."

"Then you find evidence of fraud?" asked Nye.

"Very gross evidence," he replied. Nye then asked if any prosecutions had been started and who was the district attorney for Allegheny county.

"Andrew Park," he replied. "There was one case listed for next Wednesday but it was indefinitely postponed."

Nye brought out that the marks might have been made by the election officers in counting the ballots by "lining them up."

"I know of only one way a ballot could be thus marked honestly," Frank said. "If a voter took with him a sample ballot and traced his mark on the official ballot from it then, of course, it would be an honest ballot. We took this possibility in the recount."

In many cases, Frank said, because of the nature of the markings they reached the conclusion that "ballots marked in quantities rather than by the voters themselves." He absolved Senator Davis from any blame for conditions.

Davies questioned Frank about his previous testimony to the committee concerning the refusal of Common Pleas Judge James R. MacFarland of Allegheny county to take action on fraud charges brought before him. Frank said MacFarland had shown himself to be "not particularly interested in preventing frauds."

"Do you mean to impute dishonest or criminal motives to Judge MacFarland?" Davies asked.

"No, I do not impute either dishonest or criminal motives, only that it is implied by his refusal to act in such cases."

Davies was unsuccessful to get Frank to give a "yes" or "no" answer.

"That is one of those many questions that cannot be answered by a 'yes' or a 'no,'" Frank said.

THOSE FASCINATING MAGELLAN CLOUDS—II

By Arthur De V. Carpenter

The unaided eye sees no stars within the Magellanic clouds; they are a detached portion of the Milky Way flung off into space; their apparent brightness is the same as the Milky Way. The larger cloud compared in dimensions with the sun, is about six and one-half times the apparent diameter of the sun in length, and a little more than twice the sun's apparent diameter in width. Scattering stars around the central mass give the large cloud a diameter no less than 14 times the apparent diameter of the sun. The outer diameter of the small cloud is about six and one-half times the sun's apparent diameter.

ROBBERS ACTIVE ON SOUTH SIDE

Investigating with Officers Moore, M. J. Young and Letera found the side door had been broken off its hinges and was standing open.

The proprietor James Talagotis was called and found $33.76 had been taken from the cash register. He stated that the thieves had overlooked a $250 diamond ring in the register.

At 7:30 this morning, police received a report from the proprietor, of the People's Market 19 West Long avenue, that the place had been entered by breaking in the rear door, and that $10 in nickles and dimes had been taken.

Report was also made to the police at 7 o'clock this morning that the Superior Baking Company, rear 1217 Moravia street had been broken into, but a checkup failed to reveal anything of value missing. The thieves broke down two doors to gain entry to the place.

Capt. Elder and Officers Thomas Lynch and John Young made a further investigation of the robberies this morning, and found that approximately $30 worth of canned goods had been taken at the Joseph's Market, in addition to the loot secured at the other places.

ed by the Wicksham commission. The bone-dry in the party, who acclaimed the president as their own following his message, are equally insistent that he shouldn't issue such a statement, which they claim would be "weakening." They demand that he stand four-square on his message and fight it out in 1932 on that line.

Some of Mr. Hoover's closest political advisers in the past twenty-four hours have assured newspapers correspondents privately and earnestly that his message to congress was "misinterpreted" and that he still has "an open mind" on methods of revising the eighteenth amendment.

Disapproves Repeal

Asked bluntly if he spoke for the president in the matter, they admitted they did not, but merely gave it as their own estimate of his state of mind. It was quite evident, however, that those around the president wished the impression to go to the country that the president is not as dry as his message has made him. Similar efforts were made in 1928 after Mr. Hoover's speech accepting the Republican nomination, in which he declared:

"I do not favor repeal of the 18th amendment. I stand for the efficient enforcement of the laws enacted thereunder. Any modification of the enforcement act to permit that which the constitution forbids is nullification."

Senator Fess Confident

Senator Fess of Ohio, who occupies the dual role of being the Anti-Saloon League spokesman on the floor of the senate and chairman of the Republican National Committee, has assumed the lead in the effort to convince newspaper correspondents that Mr. Hoover really has "an open mind" on the question of prohibition reform.

On Wednesday, Senator Fess called at the White House and congratulated the President on his speech. Standing on the White House steps later, he gave it as his opinion that Mr. Hoover, in his message, had charted his prohibition course for 1932 and would stand for re-election as a 100 per cent dry. The Senator was smiling and confident.

Later that day, after editorial digests from all parts of the country had been scanned, revealing that the country as a whole interpreted the message as bone-dry in content and intent, there was a cabinet council at the White House. Present were Secretary of War Hurley, Postmaster General Brown, and Secretary of the Interior Wilbur. The trio of his cabinet upon whom Mr. Hoover leans most heavily for political guidance.

Silent Previews

After this conference the word began to circulate around that the President's message had been "misinterpreted." None of the sponsors of the word wanted to be publicly quoted as saying that it had been misinterpreted, but they were insistent that it had been.

And today, Senator Fess, who on Wednesday morning was so confident that Mr. Hoover had chalked out his prohibition course for 1932, and who said "of course Mr. Hoover would run as a dry," apparently has suffered a change of heart. Senator Fess was as busily assuring inquirers today that Mr. Hoover has an "open mind" as he was on Wednesday assuring them that Mr. Hoover had pitched his tent and would stand by it.

Meanwhile, the White House preserved complete silence so far as any official comment is concerned. The troubled situation was not helped much by the visit to Washington of a delegation of New York Republicans, headed by W. Kingsland Macy, the new state chairman, who let the President know that New York is wet, and that if he persists in the stand taken in his message to congress there is grave doubt as to whether he can carry the state in 1932.

Uneasy Feeling

This visit, and the flood of telegrams, pro and con, which has poured into the White House since Tuesday, have combined to increase the uneasy feeling of the party lieutenants.

In some administration sources today the suggestion was put out that Mr. Hoover might propose a constitutional referendum on the prohibition question for 1932. He is being urged in some quarters to do that in order to relieve the party of the bone-dry mantle which his message to congress placed about its shoulders.

The Democrats, meanwhile, are enjoying it all hugely.

HA, HA, HA!

"You say your engagement was broken as the result of a misunderstanding?"

"Yes," replied the girl with weepy eyes. "I told him I never wanted him to speak to me again and he thought I meant it."

Flames were discovered shooting from the front entrance of the building at 11:20 last night by Miss Maude Moutz, a teacher in the school, who resides across the street. In a few minutes flames had spread through the entire building. Firemen said they were hampered by the large crowds gathered at the scene and later by a high wind which threatened to carry the flames to nearby buildings. Low water pressure inconvenienced the firemen, also, they reported.

Firemen continued to play streams of water on the bare walls of the building, all that remained today of the school which has served Irwin since 1891. Borough officials prepared to tear down the blackened walls should they give any warning of crumbling with possible injury to pedestrians in the district.

MAKING GOOD

NOW and then an old friend—perhaps an old college chum—is met after a lapse of many post-graduate years. How quickly it is possible to tell whether he has "made good" in the world of affairs.

It isn't discovered so much by anything he says as by the man himself. In fact, those who have missed success by the proverbial mile often boast most of their achievements after leaving school. They fool only themselves.

As an impetus for making good none is more effective than the vision of going back home radiating real success and achievement. If one could be king for a day, he would choose to spend that day in the old home town or among classmates not seen since graduation day.

If young men just coming out of school at this commencement period could really see and understand what a poor figure a failure cuts in the world, and how fine a figure a really useful, successful and outstanding citizen presents to those who knew him before he knew success, they would stop short of no sacrifice in order to get somewhere and be somebody.

There are times when pride and vanity cease to be sins and become blessings without disguise.

THE LATEST AND WORST STUNT

The limit in airplane stunts seems to have been reached by the flight of a boy twelve years old, whose father is manager of a flying field rightly declares a metropolitan daily. The fact that he landed safely does not excuse the rashness of the experiment. Children of that age cannot get licenses to run automobiles, which, after all, is a simpler matter. Presumably this boy had no license. Perhaps he did not need one. The law on this subject appears to be far less strict than it should be.

Yet other stunts by older persons reveal the need of greater care in this respect. It would be interesting to know how many of those who set forth on long flights, over land or over sea, are really competent to meet any emergency which may arise. There have been too many fatal accidents of late—whether by act of God, in the old phrase, or by fault of the victim. It is clear, at any rate, that more than one perilous flight has been undertaken without sufficient preparation or with no efficient means of coping with disaster if it comes.

In the development of any new means of transportation disaster is inevitable. It was years before the railways achieved an approach to absolute safety. We are passing through a dangerous period with the automobile, which still remains too often a menace to human life. Travel by air may be expected to be responsible for many deaths for some time to come. But peril should not be invited by irresponsible fliers, whether they are twelve or three times that age.

BASEBALL NEWS

Lingering doubts as to the near demise of the winter sports season can be dispelled by one glance at the sporting pages. Already the baseball sun is rising, and there is not a solitary cloud in the athletic sky to dim its first luster.

Baseball news comes in columns, although the season is still two months off. In this news are fact and fancy, rumors and rumbles. The pre-training shift of players, managers and team-ownerships is in progress, all of which is nearly as exciting to the dyed-in-the-wool fan as a mid-season game.

If this is the prelude to the opening of the "hot stove league," which in turn is the official forerunner of the regular baseball season, the diamond certainly intends to have much to offer to its devoted followers this year. The march of the athletes South, the discovery of new and brilliant stars, the predictions as to the pennant winners and all of the concomitant enthusiasm can not be far behind.

Before the public has time for more than a few short naps, the call for the opening games will renew the annual frenzy which nothing but the struggle for baseball leadership and honors seems to satisfy. It will not be long now until office boys' grandmothers will be dying off at an alarming rate and tired business men will be "in conference" several afternoons a week.

LINDBERGH AND THE LEGION OF HONOR

It is a distinction to be awarded the Cross of the Legion of Honor. In thus decorating Colonel Charles Lindbergh the French government has not done the unexpected. Ever since that epochal flight across the Atlantic in May, 1927, it was inevitable that the young American was in line for this historic honor. The French Ambassador in his graceful little speech said that Lindbergh was great, not only "because he proved what could be done by a lone eagle, but also because he found a new path between two continents."

Ambassador Claudel reminds us that the westward flight of Coste and Bellonte last September was a success because Lindbergh had previously mapped the transatlantic course. It was also a success because the two Frenchmen had in their hands an accurate map of the weather, "just as a sailor has in his hands an accurate map of a difficult sea." The exchange of these amenities between the representatives of the two nations is pleasing. It does much to preserve the good will which is essential for our mutual well-being.

Sun sets tonight 5:06. Sun rises tomorrow 7:18.

On February 22 the old Liberty Bell in Independence hall will ring thirteen times, each tap being for one of the original thirteen states. The old bell has not rung for one hundred years. Maybe it's ringing will bring back some of the virtues that existed one hundred years ago. Times have changed a lot since the old bell rang out its glad tidings of independence.

TODAY'S STORYETTE
The Sunday school teacher had been telling her class all about the cannibals, and the missionaries who went to foreign places.

An attempt will be made to legalize flogging in Pennsylvania during the session of the present legislature. The bill provides for whipping in addition to the usual punishments now provided by the penal code. For offenses such as assault and battery, aggravated assault and battery, robbery, arson, kidnapping, mayhem and possession of a machine gun or bomb from five to sixty lashes. The author of the bill, a judge, says flogging is the only way to stamp out crime among a certain class of lawbreakers. The bill is favored by many prominent men and organizations. No doubt

MODERN TECHNIQUE
Modern economic life demands that we handle our so-called enemies with a different technique from that of our ancestors.

At one time it was the custom to throw debtors into jail. Even modern creditors often feel this is the proper place for deadbeats, but a little thought shows that there is more profit in keeping a debtor at work. In jail he can pay nothing; at work he may be able to pay something. At least he will be self-supporting.

A man came into this office and complained that a friend of his, who was hard up, had mortgaged his machinery, paying a discount of twenty percent and eight percent interest to the lender.

"Those money sharks ought to be put in jail," he said.

Questioning revealed that the borrower was in such extreme difficulties that he was lucky to get anyone to lend him money on any terms. Instead of getting angry at money-lenders, this borrower should pray for their good health. Without them he would be out of business entirely.

Employers and employees who let their emotions get the better of their thinking are led into an equally foolish position. Certain labor leaders still regard employers as enemies. Were they wise, they would cooperate with employers, realizing that with greater prosperity, the opportunities of the workers for higher wages would be widened.

Today success comes only to those who can cooperate. Getting along with others is the essence of getting ahead.

It is the privilege of youth to be critical. Any healthy young man is expected to resist when he is told, "This will be good for you."

After thirty a man's foremost duty is to take care of himself and his family, if he has any. Criticism should be directed at himself, because he has no time to waste. Reform of the world can wait, but personal reform after thirty is urgent.

WE MUST SAVE OURSELVES

Don't try to save me from myself. It'll do you no good. It won't work. You'll get no credit from it either. I'll not be thanking you. Take my word for that.

If I put too much salt on my food I don't approve. If some of my habits don't suit you. If I read the wrong books and laugh at the wrong jokes. If I like puns and don't like grand opera. If I make mistakes in my speech and don't know when to say "shall" and when to say "will". If I'm intolerant when I should be tolerant and easy when I should be tough. If I can't get the Einstein theory through my head. If I prefer bridge to poker. If I like to watch football instead of playing tennis. If I say the wrong things. If I dream and don't do. If I procrastinate and fuss.

If in all these ways I'm wrong, you can't do anything about it. You can't change me. You can argue, you can abuse, you can remind and deplore and say, "I told you so." But you'll be wasting your time and your energy and your noble intentions.

Because you can't save me from myself, no matter how hard you try, I'm like you, I'm stubborn. I can't learn except by stubbing my toe and falling on my face.

I get no experience out of speeches or books. I get them out of life. And one lesson from life isn't enough either. I must learn again and again, till I'm all bruised and scarred and my words are the constant reminders of the mistakes I have made.

That's me, and I think it's you, too. We outgrow our own silliness. We grow into a sort of personal wisdom—or we don't. But nobody else can do for us what we ought to do for ourselves. Nobody can rescue us with second-hand learning. There are no gifts, no bargains, in life. We must Do Our Own Stuff and we shouldn't complain about that. . . . We should be grateful.

Pope's Encyclical Produces New Discussion Of Family

Modern Trends Recognized By American Public, Which, However, Welcomes New Challenge To Divorce And Allied Developments

Attention has been again turned to the status of the family by the encyclical of Pope Pius, in which he reaffirms the position of the Catholic church toward divorce, and allied subjects. Many declare that society as a whole must take to heart the opinion as expressed by the Vatican, while others point out inevitable conflicts with modernism.

"Nobody who reads the encyclical on the subject of Christian marriage," declares the DETROIT FREE PRESS, "can retain any doubt about the fundamental attitude of the church of which he is head toward the institution of matrimony, and toward the general question of sex and family relationships. Many people will consider the letter from Rome final and binding, many others will disagree with part of it, more or less violently, but few will reject it in toto. But nobody can reasonably fail to admit that His Holiness has met one of the most active and vexed questions of the time in a direct and aggressive way, and without concession to the enemy. The positive, assured tone of the encyclical, the uniformity with which a spade is called a spade, the declaration to compromise with, or speak in softened phrase regarding things the writer considers evil, give the document a character that should provoke attention even from those least likely to accept it as a rule of life. Its content makes it an historic declaration whose significance may be more apparent a decade hence than it is now."

"It may easily become one of the great Vatican papers of all time," thinks the SEATTLE TIMES, "as it offers the judgment: 'With divorce increasing in this country until it is looked upon with alarm, and the ease with which some other countries like France, Mexico and Russia permit the marriage ties to be dissolved, there is, it must be conceded, need for some one or some institution with authority to raise its hand and cry halt.' Pope Pius' encyclical is intended to protect the family, the home and society."

"Aside from the issues themselves," in the opinion of the OKLAHOMA CITY OKLAHOMAN, "there stands out the eternal, the inflexible character of the Catholic church. In the matter of fundamental principle it is entitled to whatever credit accrues from being the same yesterday, today and forever. If there is any virtue in remaining true to the traditions, in remaining impervious to chance and changing conditions, in thinking and acting in terms of centuries, then the church of Rome possesses that virtue in a degree possessed perhaps by no other order in all time."

"As a high and noble re-statement of the sanctity of the home, the encyclical should be taken to heart. As a solution for difficult problems it too largely ignores the needs of this age," asserts the MILWAUKEE JOURNAL. The HAMILTON ONTARIO SPECTATOR advises that "the fact that the condemned practices are, to such a great extent, already accepted as expedient if not necessary, by large sections of the people, cannot be ignored." That paper concludes that "the overwhelming majority of Protestants will be absolutely at one with the Vatican in its detestation of such abominable experiments as 'companionate' marriage."

The JANEVILLE GAZETTE says: "In a world gone mad over sex relationships, something powerful as this encyclical, surely needed. It is like a halting signal by some leader at a time when a mob is in motion and attention fixed on the man who has assumed that bold and daring leadership and needs to be heard."

"It is a document not only of the highest import for individuals, but for the peoples, nations, states as well, because it is the advice of the first universal council of the family," avers the CATHOLIC DAILY TRIBUNE of Dubuque, with the further statement: "Pope Pius XI deserves the good will of the whole Christian world for this timely reiteration of the Church's stand, which she has upheld valiantly, uncompromisingly, and with terrible losses."

Only a few days ago Commander Evangelist Booth of the Salvation Army, in an interview, saw the necessity to vigorously condemn divorce as a practice and a legal sanction that "cheapens marriage" and that strikes a blow against the family that "is a blow against the civilization of which we are so proud."

"It is well that we're reminded of the sanctity of the home, of the sacredness of the family, and the dangers that beset us in a day of extremity and modernism," states the ST. LOUIS TIMES, while the HARTFORD TIMES holds that "the family is the bulwark of society," and "with its integrity stands or falls the whole social structure and civilization itself."

"Monarchy seems to be the surest safeguard of individual happiness, as well as of society's general advancement," contends the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD with the further estimate of the extent of the questions involved: "Truly the problems of society are ever changing and always perplexing. With little experience to guide them, some men gladly turn to the absolute rule of a pope and thankfully let him govern their lives and their conduct. Some cannot do this, seeking in themselves the answer to their problems. It may be that this present century will witness a recasting of society into conventions, manners and morals that will be startling, new, different and highly individualized. It may be that tentative excursions into such realms will turn the race, as a whole, more strongly to the ancient, time-proved customs. This is a troubled, transitional period, and there is none wise enough to read the answer carved by fate and by time."

"Is it to be supposed," asks the BOSTON TRANSCRIPT, "that the church which certainly holds itself to be immutably founded, can, by reason of popular currents of action and privately propagated influence, abandon its settled principles? Hardly. To do so would mean the loosening of other influences that those pertaining especially to these particular tendencies. It would mean that the captain of the ship, because menacing waves were rising high, was ready to leave his post and the deck itself and leap into the surging seas of doubt and materialism, or at least of latitudinarianism. The influence against which the Pope lifts his voice are those of earthly convenience, of the material situation of

Erie May Reduce Treasurer's Fees

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 23.—Recent demand for a reduction in the percentage fee income of the city treasurer today was in concrete form after Thomas Mehauffey, finance director, announced he would sponsor an ordinance in city council to reduce the present rate from one-half to one-fourth of one percent.

Michael Cronin, city treasurer, has announced his support of the new resolution. Under the law, however, a change in the rate cannot be legally made until a new incumbent has assumed office.

Approximately $2,500 would be clipped from the city treasurer's fees if the proposed ordinance is adopted, officials at city hall said. The treasurer obtains the bulk of his fees from payments of taxes.

Mehauffey's action was believed to have resulted from demands of the Erie County Republican Women's club that the city enforce a reduction of the treasurer's fees in order to increase city economy which is claimed had become necessary in the face of the present depression.

Burglar Escapes After Looting Of Fashionable Club

Exclusive Clover Club For Bachelors At Pittsburgh Entered By Robber

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 23.—Breaking away after grappling with an awakened guest, an armed burglar today made the rounds of all sleeping quarters in the exclusive Clover club, a rendezvous for bachelors in the former A. P. Moore mansion and filled with several hundred dollars in cash.

Eighteen members of the club, including prominent officials and employees of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and the Duquesne Light Company were asleep when the intruder entered the club rooms shortly after six o'clock this morning. Police said the man gained an entry by "jimmying" the kitchen window.

Stealthily entering the second and third floor bedrooms the burglar emptied the trouser pockets of the sleeping members and took all loose cash lying in bureau drawers and on chairs together with a small amount of jewelry.

Frank Hays, 27, of the Duquesne Light Co. n. was awakened by the burglar as he attempted to leave the second floor hallway. He seized the intruder who broke away from Hays' grasp and after threatening him with a revolver ran down the stairs and escaped through the opened kitchen window.

County Traversed By Network Of Bus Lines

Twenty Five Busses Are Carrying Passengers Out Of New Castle Daily

Busses Run In Every Direction Far And Near, From This City

Just how much bus transportation has expanded during the past few years, due to the progress made in road building in Pennsylvania may be learned from a survey of the number of bus line systems and automobiles being used in New Castle today.

An inquiry develops the fact that no less than 25 busses are carrying passengers out of New Castle daily, on eight bus lines and one may not only reach almost any point in the county by bus, but can also go from coast to coast, and from the gulf of Mexico to Canada.

The development of good roads has enabled traction companies to supplant street cars with automobile busses, while even the railroad companies are using busses for short hauls.

In Lawrence county, one may go to New Wilmington and thence on to Sharon, or via Eastbrook to Volant, Leesburg and Mercer on the north. Travelling to western sections of the county and beyond one can go to New Bedford, Youngstown, and on to Akron and Cleveland, over a single route; or to Mt. Jackson, and Bessemer.

In a southerly direction, one can go to Wampum, Koppel and Beaver Falls and Pittsburgh, via one route, or to Ellwood City and Beaver Falls and Pittsburgh, over another.

Travelling east, one can get a bus to Harlansburg, Slippery Rock, Grove City, and even on to Erie, or to Oil City, Franklin, Clarion, and DuBois.

In addition to these there are two different systems which will carry one into Pittsburgh, and from thence on to many different points. If a person is desirous of going to Philadelphia, New York, Washington, D. C., Chicago, St. Louis, or out to the Pacific coast, or to Florida, even, he can get on a bus in New Castle and eventually be whisked to his destination.

Bus lines out of New Castle connect with air lines in Cleveland for Detroit, or in the summer time, he can drive right onto the pier and take a boat.

Just as soon as a hard-surface road is built to any section of the county, an application for a bus line is made, and within a short period of time there is a bus line running along the highway.

Transportation keeps right up with the progress made in road building.

Peter's Adventures

FIRST COME, WORST SERVED
Something was always happening in Insectland to surprise Peter. Not very long before the boy had watched the Red Ant nurses tenderly caring for the little Black Ant babies in their cocoon cradles. Now he saw the Red Ant warriors crushing the youngsters without mercy. Why?

"If the Red Ants intended to make away with the little Black Ant Princesses why did they take the trouble to carry the cocoons all the way over here from Black Ant Hill, Lively?" demanded Peter.

"Because it was too soon to tell the princesses from the workers, and the Red Ants did not want to take a chance on harming any young Black Ants that might grow up to serve them. But princesses will not be slaves, so they are putting them out of the way."

"How can they tell the princesses and workers apart now?" Peter was curious.

"Oh, the princesses always hatch out first, and if you listen carefully you can hear the cocoons shells burst open!" replied Lively.

"Cruel Red Ants!" declared the boy, angrily. "I wish I could hurt them as they hurt the poor Black Ants." Then, to the boy's surprise, Lively jumped to the defense of her mistresses.

"After all, you can't blame the Red Ants!" said the Black Ant slave. "Growing Princesses eat an awful lot and never do a bit of work to pay for their board and bed. And when the Princesses become Queens they lay lots of eggs. If the Red Ants should let them live it wouldn't be any time at all before Red Ant Hill would turn into a Black Ant city. But it makes me feel badly, that it does!"

Grove City Club Told School Needs

Superintendent Of Schools H. M. B. Lehn Addresses Rotary Club

GROVE CITY, Jan. 23.—Supt. H. M. B. Lehn was the principal speaker at the noon-day meeting yesterday of the Grove City Rotary Club. He gave a very interesting talk on the needs of the Grove City schools and impressed his listeners the great need of a manual training department here.

Supt. Lehn outlined several ways in which this could be accomplished but strongly urged the presenting of the proposition of constructing a separate shop building to the voters of the city. He also urged the voters to elect a board that would work in harmony for the good of the local schools.

Consider Plan For Opening Sub-Office

If arrangements can be made, the postoffice here may open a sub-station in some East Washington store-room like the Brown & Hamilton branch of several years ago. Postmaster Edwin Crawford, who states bids asked from merchants are due Saturday, announces:

College Class Plans Three-Act Play For March

(Special to The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Jan. 23.—The junior class of Westminster College has completed plans for the presentation of a three-act comedy, "Wedding Bells," to be presented in the New Wilmington Community House late in March or early in April.

The play, for the benefit of the Argo, junior class yearbook, will be directed by Professor A. T. Cordray, director of the college Little Theatre. Tryouts for cast parts will be held some time early next month. Professor Cordray announces:

For a number of years the junior class play, with talent from the class taking the leading roles, has been the outstanding dramatic presentation of the college. But with the organization of Masques, dramatic fraternity, this play will have to compete with such excellent presentations as "The Queen's Husband," recently produced, and another full-length drama to be produced during the second semester. In addition to these longer plays, the Little Theatre organization at Westminster and the class in Acted Drama are responsible for a number of one-act pieces.

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Jan. 23.—Applicants for state positions will be required to pledge obedience to the constitution and loyalty to the policies "approved by the people of the Commonwealth in the election of 1930," according to an announcement made today by Governor Gifford Pinchot.

The pledge is a modified form of that to which state appointees had to subscribe during the former Pinchot administration. That pledge specifically mentioned the Eighteenth amendment.

The form of the present pledge is as follows: "If appointed I will defend and obey the constitution of the United States and loyally support the policies approved by the people of this Commonwealth in the election of 1930."

The governor refused to amplify the provisions of the pledge or to further define its meaning. "Policies approved" at the last election is believed to mean personal support of the platform on which the governor was elected.

Landlord's Verdict Nets Him One Cent

(International News Service)
PUEBLO, Colo., Jan. 23.—A damage suit for $100 was whittled down to one cent by Justice of the Peace George C. Foster recently in a civil case brought before his court. The defendants, a man and his wife, were charged with having left a house belonging to the plaintiff. They assertedly departed in the midst of a period of cold weather and failed to make provision for maintaining a fire in the house. The result was that a leaky wash-tub was made totally ineffective by having water frozen in it. The landlord sued for $100. Justice Foster awarded damages of one cent plus the costs of $5.

Divorces In 1930 In Pennsylvania

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 23.—Cupid's fame as a matchmaker took quite a drubbing in Philadelphia during the year of 1930, for 2271 of the supposed happily married couples ended in the divorce court, according to figures compiled by the prothonotary of the court of common pleas. Only 1823 of the requests were granted. This figure was an increase of 115 cases granted over the 1708 suits in 1929, but the suits filed showed a decided decrease over the 2422 cases in 1929. Delegates at a recent contractors' convention in Des Moines were told that the cellar had become obsolete. But some of the newer refrigerators have room for a few bottles.—The Des Moines Tribune-Capital.

Funds Of Relief Committee Are Now Exhausted

Committee May Be Forced To Suspend Operations By End Of Present Week

OVER FOUR HUNDRED ARE AIDED WEEKLY

According to a report made this morning by Secretary Orville Porter of the mayor's relief committee, operations will have to be suspended at the end of the current week, unless more funds are immediately placed at the disposition of the committee.

The committee was not given authority to raise funds, and have been subsisting on contributions. Approximately $2,500 was placed at their disposal, in addition to the food secured through the Penn Theatre who gave a benefit performance during December.

City employees and employees of the National Radiator Co. contributed liberally to the fund with money donations, while approximately $400 was secured from the benefit boxing show at the Castle Bowl on Monday evening.

Approximately $400 a week is needed to take care of the number who have applied for assistance from the committee, an average of 450 applicants having been taken care of by the committee, who have been furnishing food and clothing to these people each week.

Just how much will be received from the show presented Wednesday and Thursday evenings by the Theater Guild has not yet been learned, but it will barely suffice to wipe out a deficit which now exists.

Pulaski Awarded Attendance Shield Thursday Afternoon

Mid-Year Efficiency Conference Of County Sabbath School Association Held

Mid-year efficiency of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association held Thursday afternoon and evening at the Y. W. C. A. was well attended and a program of unusual interest was carried out.

Featuring the presentation of a shield to the district of the association, which had the best attendance of district officers and school superintendents present at the conference. Five of the eight districts had better than one hundred percent, that is they had more than the minimum number of fourteen officers or representatives in attendance, being allowed substitutes where officers were unable to attend.

Pulaski district won the shield with 36 representatives in attendance. Slippery Rock district was second with 24 present, New Castle district third with 22, New Wilmington fourth with 17, and Mt. Jackson fifth with 15. This was the third consecutive time that the Pulaski district has won the shield.

Another matter of interest during the afternoon was the debate on the subject "Resolved that the efficiency of the Sabbath School class depends more upon the students than the teachers" in which representatives of the Young People's Division were the debaters. For the affirmative, the debaters were Ella McClenahan and Mabel Kegarise, while those for the negative were Raymond Bennett and Margaret Byrd Shaw.

The judges named to decide the debate were Rev. Robert Hamill, Albert Chapin and Emma Cooper. The judges announced at the conclusion of the debate that both sides deserved the utmost commendation and that in view of the showing made by each side in the debate that it was thought best not to make a decision.

The principal address of the afternoon was made by Dr. George W. Wellburn, superintendent Christian Education of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association, which had to do with advanced standards in Sabbath Schools and in particular with the Standard B program that is now being taken up here. His address was followed by the principal discussion of the conference on the matter of Standard B program in schools which is displacing the former ten percent standard and is now being taken up in the schools of the county. The discussion indicated that the officers of the county schools would make a special effort to get the schools on the new standard.

The conference got under way at 2:15 p. m. with the registration of delegates to the same. Devotionals were led by Rev. Frank Black, pastor of Oak Grove. The music was in charge of John Owens with Miss Katherine Newbury as pianist.

Introductory remarks were made by Rev. R. M. Haverfield, Christian Education Superintendent in Lawrence County and Rev. J. W. St. Clair, associate superintendent of Christian Education. In addition to the previously mentioned parts of the program there was a Children's Division discussion led by Mrs. M. E. Vaughn, a teacher's training discussion led by Mrs. R. H. Nesbit, a discussion of Young People's work by Howard Cox, county superintendent and C. L. Carlisle, Pulaski district superintendent. Miss Anna Perry, administrative superintendent spoke on "Importance of Memorizing the Bible in Sabbath School." In the conference period near the close of the afternoon, Mrs. Margaret Speer Gibson had charge of that on Missions, Miss Margaret Walker of that on Temperance, Homer C. Drake on Home Department and Rev. J. G. Bingham on Parent Training.

A fellowship conference dinner was held in the Y. W. C. A. dining-room at 6:45 o'clock which was largely attended. The shield for best attendance was awarded at this time and Dr. George W. Wellburn was the speaker at this feature of the day.

Assessor Bion Cover Denies Allegation

Claims He Never Said: "Let Second Ward Pay The Taxes"

Bion Cover, in charge of the triennial assessment today denied before city council the rumor that he stated: "Let the Second ward pay the taxes."

The gentlemen who appeared before council said that he had heard the report but that he himself did not state that Mr. Cover had made the remark.

Councilman W. T. Burns sent for Mr. Cover.

When the latter was apprised of the remark, he said:

"What object would I have for making such a remark? Whenever anyone tells you that Mr. Cover made this statement you tell him he is not telling the truth."

"In other words you mean that he is a liar?" remarked Councilman Treser.

"Yes, Sir," retorted Mr. Cover. So far no one has appeared before council officially to verify the alleged remark of the chief assessor.

Century Of Work Celebrated By Hydrographers

Office Established One Hundred Years Ago Makes Progress

By E. B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The un-romantic, hard working hydro-graphic office of the United States Navy has just celebrated the anniversary marking completion of an even century of work which has changed and recharged the invisible lanes of the sea and air.

For a brief space on that day the apparently drab routine of the office was replaced by excitement incident to ceremonies quiet but expressive of heartfelt gratitude on the part of the marine world.

For in the slender network of lines the hydrographers seem eternally busy drawing lies safely for the navigators of the air and sea. It is to the hydrographic office they look for guidance in their hazardous work.

The hydrographic office aided in the "preparations for the epochal
New York to Paris flight of Colonel Landberg. It furnished valuable data for the flight of the Woolac in which Art Goebel flew from the west coast to Hawaii. And daily it sends out charts for the guidance of the sailor and flier without which they would be an innocent prey to the winds and storms of the sea.

The hydrographic office was established 100 years ago under Lieutenant L. M. Goldsborough as a "depot of charts and instruments," with a working force of eleven officers and 180 civilians. At present the office has at hand 300,000 charts and 100,000 manuals and books ready for issue. It has some 7-000 mariners on its correspondence lists who daily pour information into the office from all over the world.
From a skeletonized force picking up information as best it might, checking and rechecking it for accuracy, the office has developed into a force which supplies maritime commerce with a host of invaluable information.

Daily by naval radio information received from the Navy's ice patrol is sent out to warn sailors of the ice.

Two Scientists Study Health Of Prisoners

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 23.— Correction of physical defects of criminals will be the next big step in prison reform, according to a report to be submitted to President Hoover's law Enforcement commission by Dr. H. B. Boram, of South Bend, and W. A. Guild, of Chicago.
Dr. Guild was named by the commission to make a study of the physical condition of criminals and he selected Dr. Boram as his assistant.
The two physicians examined 100 men picked at random from the Federal Prison at Atlanta.
"Without exception, the men were physically defective and in every case except two, the ailments found might have had a direct influence on the crimes for which the men are in prison," Dr. Boram said.
"Physical wrongs are often the cause of mental wrongs. So convinced have we become of this since our investigation that we feel crime could be greatly diminished, should the criminals be made well physically."

"It would be rash to say that every person with a physical ailment is criminally minded, or that every criminal has something the matter with his body. But it is a fact that many prisoners would not be serving time today if defects they possess had been corrected earlier in their life."

"The criminal impulse is one of disease and not of health. The normal man does not harbor thoughts of criminal deeds in his mind. It is usually the disordered person who thinks and acts contrary to the social order."

Anna Pavlova Is Taken By Death

Career Ends For Woman Considered World's Premier Danseuse,
Aged 46

PLEURISY ATTACK WEAKENS HEART

(International News Service)

THE HAGUE, Jan. 23.—Death rang down the curtain today on the career of Anna Pavlova, considered the world's premier danseuse. On January 31 she would have been 46 years old.

The trim and small ballerina whose graceful interpretations of classic dance brought her the acclaim of the old and new worlds and the personal praise of various monarchs, succumbed to pleurisy a few days after contracting a chill while enroute here from France.

Physicians strove in vain to save her, resorting finally to camphor injections to strengthen her weakening heart. Complications set in, however, and the end came at 1 a.
m., this morning.

She died peacefully in her sleep due to the sudden collapse of the heart. The body will be taken to the Russian church here today.

Her husband and violin accompanist, Victor D'Andre, was at the bedside. The couple were married in 1924.

Tax On Estate Gives City $58,918

WARREN, O., Jan. 23.—The estate of the late Mary Perkins Lawton had a gross value of $1,823,000 and will yield an inheritance tax of $117-839 to be divided equally between the state and city of Warren. The tax was shown by a journal entry filed today in probate court. The tax will give the city of Warren $58,918 in cash. Under the law, half of this sum must go into the sinking fund but half may go into the general fund.

State Legion Head Coming

Will Accompany National Commander To New Castle, March 11

WOMAN LEADER ALSO TO ATTEND

This year's banquet to the National Commander of the American Legion, Ralph T. O'Neil, scheduled for March 11 in the Cathedral of the Holy Spirit, will be a far outstrip previous affairs of its kind. Not alone will the national commander be present but the state commander, Charles I. Enghard will accompany him.

Today General Chairman Harry M. Long announced that in addition to the two officials mentioned, Mrs. Thomas Meony of Philadelphia, state commander of the Women's Auxiliary, would be present and the affair will be one of the largest, possibly the largest in Pennsylvania this year.

Women's Committee

The announcement that Mrs. Meony would be present came Thursday evening when a tri-county meeting of the Auxiliary was held in the Legion Home at which the district commander, Mrs. C. Homer, of Greenville, was present.

The women were enthusiastic over the fact that their state commander would be present and immediately formed an organization of their own to handle tickets for the banquet. Mrs. Homer was appointed as general chair lady for the district, with the following county chair ladies. For Lawrence county, Mrs. Elizabeth Miller; for Beaver county, Mrs. Frank Diddle; for Butler county, Mrs. R. E. Ripper; for Mercer county, Mrs. W. E. Temple.

Indications are now that the difficulty this year will be not where to sell tickets, but when to shut off the sale. Not more than 2000 can be accommodated and inasmuch as it is a public function for the four Western Pennsylvania counties and also many guests from eastern Ohio, it is important that tickets be secured early.

In 1930, there were over 1900 at the banquet. This year in addition to the address of the national and state commanders, there will be a vaudeville show, and a dance following. Because of these added attractions, and the importance of the honor guests, tickets are going to be bought avidly.

For 26th District

The banquet is not only a New Castle affair, it belongs to the entire 26th congressional district. New Castle has the facilities for handling the crowd and for this reason is asked each year to put on the banquet. There are always a lot of guests from the surrounding counties and last year, Youngstown, Warren and Niles sent over about 200 visitors. For the reason that the national commander did not appear in an Ohio city as close to Youngstown as is New Castle.

The committees appointed by General Chairman Harry M. Long are already functioning and the interest in the banquet is manifesting itself. As far as is known National Commander O'Neil will make but three appearances in Pennsylvania in 1931, one in Philadelphia, one in Pittsburgh and one in New Castle.

Alton Railroad Seeks To Acquire Property Rights

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The Alton Railway Co. today applied to the Interstate Commerce commission for authority to acquire all property of the Chicago and Alton railroad.

This road was sold to the Baltimore and Ohio in December and the Alton Company was set up as a holding corporation. The Alton also sought authority to issue 250,000 shares of common stock of a value about $25,000,000, the proceeds to be used to acquire the property and authority to take over bonds of the Chicago and Alton worth $45,350,000 and other obligations.

Woman Gives Aid To German Institute

(International News Service)

BAD NAUHEIM, Jan. 23.—Work on the new institute for research in diseases of the heart, made possible by a donation of one million dollars by Mrs. Louis E. Kerckhoff of Los Angeles, is progressing so rapidly that the building will probably be ready for occupancy early in the spring.

It will be known as the Kerckhoff Institute, in honor of the donor.

The institute will include four departments—one for patients covered by sickness insurance, one for the assembling of statistics concerning the causes of affections of the heart, a third department for popular instructions as to causes and methods of treatment, and a fourth for experimental pathology and therapeutics.

Short-Legged M. P.'s Victorious In Tilt

(International News Service)

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Short-legged members of the British government have gained a victory over their long-legged brethren.

Experiments had been tried recently of tilting backwards some of the seats in the House of Commons the seats of which, with the passing of time, had become so slippery that the long-legged members who stretched their legs suddenly were in danger of an undignified slide on to the floor.

The long-legged members hailed this experiment as a great success, but the shorter members complained that their feet did not touch the floor and that they were unable to catch the speaker's eye. The seats are now to be returned to their former state.

Gilkey Submits Survey Of Road

Data On Proposed Improvement Of Road Leading To The Burton Powder Plant

According to a survey made by Civil Engineer T. A. Gilkey, which was submitted to the county commissioners this morning, the road leading from the foot of the Pitzer Hill on the Mt. Jackson road to the Burton Powder plant is about two and one third miles long. Mr. Gilkey also submitted an estimate of the work to be done on this road.

County Commissioner P. O. Elder, under whose direction the proposed work was to be done, stated this morning that no definite time had been set to begin the work. There has been some hesitancy about starting owing to plans which have been discussed for an overhead bridge over railroad tracks at Covert's station, and the proposed viaduct at Edenburg.

However, it is believed that even should these improvements be made it would be several years, before they would be completed. There is immediate demand for the road leading to the Mt. Jackson hill, as the Burton plant is about to begin operations and there no likelihood of suitable access to the plant for a long time to come unless this road is improved.

Prodigy, Aged 5, Reader of Husleg

(International News Service)

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Jan. 23.—With never yet a day in school and only his mother's instruction at odd moments, Spencer Rose, five years old, has learned to read anything according to the claims of his father a fish merchant, of New Britain.

Phantasmagoria, hypotheses, evolution hold no terrors for him. Inadequate, symbolical, universal roll off his tongue glibly and accurately pronounced. Huxley is his favorite author, and reading newspapers his favorite diversion.

At two, he knew his alphabet. At five, after a three years' lapse in his education due to his mother's illness he renewed his education, learning quickly the principles of phonetics and word building his mother, a former school teacher in England, taught him.

He is gifted mechanically, and has successfully taken apart and reconstructed many of his mechanical toys. At 13, his parents have planned he will enter college to study engineering. All of his preparatory education he will receive at home. Until then he will continue to read newspaper headline, essays by Huxley, and bank statements, and pronounce all the words with facility and ease, even if he does not yet fully understand their meanings.

British Justice Is Quite Speedy

(International News Service)

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Justice, as meted out in the British courts: Arthur Henry Hollis was accused of bigamy Jan. 4.

He surrendered Jan. 8. He was committed for trial Jan. 10.

He was sentenced Jan. 13. "I must tell the Americans about this," was Judge Sir Ernest Wild's comment as he signed the conviction sheet, sentencing Hollis to twelve months' imprisonment.

Hub City Claims Convention Center

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—The convention center of America.

That was the title being claimed for the City of Boston, which in 1930 played hostess to 502 conventions and entertained 10,000,000 visitors during the year-long celebration of the Tercentenary of the founding of Massachusetts Bay, and which in 1931 may match, if not surpass, the banner Tercentenary year.

Already twenty-one national or international organizations and hundreds of New England groups have signified their intention of holding conventions in Boston during the first six months of the year, according to announcement by the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Officials of the Chamber of Commerce based their prediction that 1931 would see an increase over 1930 in the number of conventions held here upon the advertising Boston and New England received during the Tercentenary year.

Among the international organizations coming to Boston are: American Association of University Women; American Institute of Chemical Engineers; National Association of Credit Men; International Association of Display Men; National Fraternal Society of the Deaf; Supreme Lodge, Knights of Pythias; International Typographical Union; National Association of Cotton Manufacturers; National Sojourners.

Fear Is Ogre To Hundreds, Spoiling Life

More Than One Thousand Persons Involved
In Test

By R. A. WRAY

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Fears that handicaps—fears in general—fears of the dark, of noise and traffic, of being alone and of personal ability—form the subject matter of "The Nervous Temperament," a report of the British Industrial Research Board.

More than one thousand persons, ranging from office boys to presidents of great business corporations have been tested. They included clerical workers, factory workers, people in administrative posts and students, of both sexes.

The "nervous type," the report states, is not confined to any one group of workers, although students in this case prospective architects, teachers and actors give the highest percentage of nervous people. There was little difference between the sexes.

In people holding positions of authority 70 per cent of those tested had slight or absent nervous symptoms. A real capacity for directing others proved very rare. Heads of firms stated that one of their chief difficulties was to get people who could manage subordinates well.

As regards contentment with work a higher percentage of nervous people are dissatisfied than those who are not nervous.

In regards to symptoms when a person is asked to see his chief, "E" may be mildly apprehensive; "B" experience interested wonder; "C" feel shaky at the knees; "D" prepare for the most improbable worst; "E" feel that he has done something wrong; and "F" feel all right if he has done something wrong and knows what it is but apprehensive if innocent.

Then there was the person who was never sure that he was right with whom any challenge would immediately cause doubt to arise; and at the other end the person who was as irrationally sure he could not be wrong. He dared not let himself be wrong.

In some people there was an irrational inability to consider a piece of work finished, in spite of the fact that it had been done with meticulous accuracy.

Some were affected with doubts after doing a trivial action such as turning off a light, locking a door, and so on, and being compelled to go back and verify it, even though they know the act has been done.

This "feeling of left undone" may cause an indecision and distress sufficient to constitute the main factor in a nervous breakdown while fears of traffic, of solitude, of crowds, of open or closed spaces may deprive life of its usefulness.

New York Texans Buy Historic Clock

Was Purchased Originally As Official Timepiece For Texas Territory

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—A group of former Texas citizens, now New Yorkers, headed by Col. John T. Dickinson, has purchased an old Texas clock, bought in this city almost 100 years ago to serve as the time piece in the Texan territory when that state was a republic.

Col. Edward M. House and Judge Adolphus Regan are members of the group.

The clock was purchased from Lewis Miller Crocker, whose father, the late Captain Crocker, was former mayor of Austin, Texas. He came into possession of the clock when it was sold along with other furniture, soon after the wooden capitol building of Texas was burned. The purchase price will be used by Crocker to continue his vocal studies in New York.

The clock, which hung in the original and each succeeding capitol building of Texas until 1882, will be sent to the governor of the state and hung in a spot similar to the original one.

Too much football tactics in his treatment of her was a reason cited for her action by Mrs. Rella Strong, former Broadway showgirl, as she asked for $80 a week alimony from Ken Strong, her husband and former New York university gridiron star.

Study Shows Few Unwed Kill Self Compared To Wed

Chance Of Taking Own Life Is Less If Unmarried Statistics Show

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 23.—Wedded bliss is no surety against suicide. In fact your chance of taking your own life is less if you stay single.

Only about eight per cent of the suicides among married folk, however, are the result of domestic quarrels. While to offset this, approximately three per cent of the suicides among unmarried people are caused by unrequited love.

These conclusions were reached by Coroner T. B. W. Leland of San Francisco, after a study of suicide figures over the past five years.

The total suicides during this period was 1,410, or an average of two suicides every three days. Of this number slightly more than 300 were women and girls. Married people outnumbered the unmarried by three to two.

"Most suicide victims," declared Leland, "are between the ages of 40 and 50 years. From this mean, the number decreases correspondingly in both age directions to the extremes of 14 and 86 years.

"Inhaling gas is the method most employed by persons taking their own lives. A slightly lesser per cent use guns of some description, while still fewer resort to poison. Jumping from windows or from boats is common. A large number hang themselves."

Ill health is the major cause of suicide, according to the Coroner, followed by mental derangement, financial loss, liquor, lack of work and domestic quarrels.

December has the most suicides, and July the fewest.

Closing Arguments Ready In Mix Case

Tom Mix, Film Cowboy, Angered During Ordeal On Witness Stand In Erie

(International News Service)
ERIE, Pa., Jan. 23.—Closing arguments of attorneys in the $325,000 breach of contract suit brought against Tom Mix, the cowboy movie hero, by Zack T. Miller, owner of the 101 Ranch shows, were to be heard in today's session, a dull aftermath to the bustling cross-examination.

Applause rattled through the Erie county court-room when Mix, angered by questions of plaintiff's counsel, shot back angrily, "What's the big idea, trying to make a liar out of me?"

Mix's answers frequently brought approving expressions from the throngs of curious who were warned by the judge that another outbreak would result in the courtroom being cleared.

Though almost worn out by the three-hour grilling examination of Attorney Charles H. English, counsel for Miller, Mix continued to reiterate his own testimony concerning the negotiations with Miller in Philadelphia. He denied that a specific written contract had been drawn up which would have given him a place in the 101 Ranch attractions.

The film cowboy was cross-examined concerning a reported party said to have been held in a Chicago hotel last Christmas. Mix denied the existence of a bar reported to have been set up in his room but admitted he "may have taken a drink of wine" that evening.

Costs Man Extra To Talk Back

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 23.—Conrad Stark, 39, of Cleveland, is well acquainted with the fact that withholding opinions is a much better plan than talking back to a police court judge.

Stark was arraigned before Police Judge David M. Moran on a charge of intoxication. He pleaded guilty. "Five dollars and costs," said the magistrate casually.

"What—$5 and costs?" retorted Stark. "Make it $25 and costs, Judge, that's not enough."

"All right," said the judge. "I'll make it $25 and costs." And after reflecting an instant, he added: "I'll give you one better, I'll give you 30 days."

Old Indian Mountain Passes Variously Used, Survey Shows

(International News Service)
DENVER, Jan. 23.—The tremendous charges in methods of transportation during the last half century have brought about similar changes in the relative importance of the 136 mountain passes in the state of Colorado, it was revealed by a survey of these passageways recently completed by Ralph H. Brown of the University of Minnesota, formerly a professor of geology at the University of Colorado. All of the routes were formerly used by Indians, missionaries, traders, trappers, prospectors, explorers and post riders.

The continental divide is crossed by 51 of these passes. All of the passes are located at the headwaters of opposing streams, according to the survey.

Since the advent of the white man into Colorado some of the passes have become the route of first class highways, parts of coast-to-coast road systems. Some provide crossings for railroads. Others have progressed little from the primitive trails the red man followed across the mountains.

Some of the passes which were heavily utilized in pioneer days have been practically abandoned following the development of automobile highways. Mosquito Pass at one time led an important wagon road from South Park into the Leadville district. This route has been surveyed for an automobile road, but actual construction work has been found impractical.

Although travel over the passes when they were mere trails was comparatively light, they were significant in that they pointed the way for later development. Ute Pass, in Teller county, was an Indian trail before 1800 and a road in the early 60's. Today it is a modern highway.

Berthoud pass, Brown's survey shows, now carries as much highway traffic as all the other passes in the state combined. Tennessee pass ranks second, in addition to bearing a heavy railroad traffic. Other much used passes across the Continental divide include Rabbit Ears, Muddy, Willow Creek, Milner, Fremont, Hagerman, South Cochetopa, Menarch and Wolf Creek.

Anthracite Industry Held As Model For American Business

John L. Lewis, President Of United Mine Workers Exploits Hard Coal Industry

Speaks Before New York Gathering—Praises Operators For Stand Taken

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—The Pennsylvania anthracite industry was held up as a model for American business by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, last night when he spoke before the first annual banquet of the Anthracite Club of New York.

The banquet was attended by nearly 1,000 and was called by anthracite leaders the biggest gathering of its kind in the history of the industry.

Operators Praised.

Lewis, who was the principal speaker, praised the anthracite operators for their action in continuing the present wage levels and working conditions of the miners in a five-year agreement made last August, at a time when, Lewis pointed out,
a turn for the better was nowhere in prospect.

He declared the nation had been thrown into reverse gear by the attacks on wages, in many cases made by industrial leaders who had pledged themselves to the contrary.

Conditions Contrasted.

Conditions in the anthracite field were contrasted to those in the bituminous mines. Lewis recalled the price slashing war that began in 1924, when new bituminous operations repudiated wage contracts with the United Mine Workers of America in order to reduce prices, and said that today the capital resources of more than half the industry had been entirely exhausted and the assets of over half the remaining companies were seriously impaired, while communities bankrupted and towns deserted.

"The bituminous coal industry in Indiana and Illinois, the two states north of the Ohio river which have continued their union relationships, while suffering in common with all other industries, are nevertheless in far better condition both as regards capital resources, labor efficiency and human welfare than the coal industries of those regions where feudalism and virtual slavery have been restored," Lewis said.

Speaks of Problems.

Lewis spoke of problems in the anthracite field—the dumping of Russian anthracite, competition of other fuels, and changed American living conditions as they affect anthracite fuel.

"In the case of the dumping of Russian anthracite," produced by conscript labor and sold at a huge loss in American markets by a nation so bent on filling its own wants from its own resources as to levy a tariff of $35 the pair on American made shoes, it becomes so obviously the duty of the American government to stop its importation that comment is unnecessary," he said.

Coal will always remain the most economical and dependable fuel, declared Lewis.

Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, who was to have spoken, was detained in Washington and his speech was read. Congressman
G. Frank Brumm, Schuylkill county, Pa., spoke in Senator Davis' place, and said production would be resumed when consumers were given enough wages to buy.

Indian Treaty Is Returned To Its Real Owners

Transfer From Former Owner To Seneca Indians Is Made At Mercer

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Jan. 23.—Formal transfer of a famous treaty made in 1789 at Fort Mifflin, Marietta, O., between the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Six Nations, as the Indian Tribes inhabiting this section of the country were and are still known, was made here Thursday, when Sheriff Dan Callahan, who has had possession of the famous instrument on a writ of replevin gave it to J. E. Reed of the Erie Historical Society who held a power of attorney to secure the same.

The treaty was made in duplicate on parchment, one copy going to the Seneca Tribes of the Six Nations, who held the records of the Six Nations and the other to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. In some unknown manner, the copy in possession of the Senecas became lost and was finally found in possession of S. P. Fish, prominent banker of Farrell, Pa.

J. E. Reed, of Erie, who is a member of the Seneca Tribe by Adoption was authorized by the chiefs of the tribe at a meeting on their reservation at Warren, Pa., to get possession of the treaty.

He came here several months ago and Mr. Fish being in California, a writ of replevin was secured to get possession of the treaty, which was placed in the hands of the sheriff pending the return of Mr. Fish. It was valued at $2,500 and a bond of $5,000 put up pending final action on the writ.

Whether or not Mr. Fish was remunerated for the loss of the famous treaty is not known, due to the fact that there is a question as to whether or not any person may have possession of such a legal paper, other than those to whom it actually belongs, who are the members of the Seneca Tribe in this instance.

the driver when he attempted to

The victim was Joseph Kahl, 33.
He was taken to the Temple hospi-

Police have been unable to ques-

It was learned however that three

Panic stricken Kahl threw his car into gear, but before it moved one of his assailants whipped out a pistol and fired point blank. Kahl's screams of pain threw the trio into a panic and they fled.

Last Of Grove City Cases To Be Tried

George Crawford, Indicted On Serious Charge, Will Stand Trial

MERCER, Pa., Jan. 23.—The last of the Grove City cases against four well known men will be disposed of at the January session, it is reported by District Attorney Leo McKay.

The trial of George Crawford of that city indicted along with the trio tried at the October session charged with an offense against a young girl, will be a feature of the term.

The cases of Bohlender and Mc-Dowell, convicted by jury verdict at the October sessions, will be argued for a new trial soon, it is anticipated. The trial judge at the hearings was Judge James A. Chambers of Lawrence county, who will be here for the sessions starting January 26.
Arrangements will be made at that time for argument.

PAROLE OFFICER REPORTS

Five broke their vows of probation and 15 their parole during 1930 is the report of Rev. W. T. K.
Thompson, parole officer of the county, who handled over 200 cases during the year.

Since assuming the duties of this office six years ago the percentage of violators has never exceeded seven.

The official has handled 1,500 prisoners in that period of time and made collections of fines and costs in excess of $100,000.

LIST CIVIL CASES

For the February term of common pleas court there are 39 cases listed. The term opens on February 16 and will be presided over by Judge
J. A. McLaughry.

MANY WOMEN IN JAIL

Four women admitted at the county since Monday makes the total of that sex there 22. The number is a record. The last year has broken all previous jail history for women prisoners. The major portion of them are sentenced for liquor violations.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the county Red Cross will be held at 7:30
Thursday, January 29, at the Hotel Humes, Mercer. All members are urged to be present.

TO EXAMINE STUDENTS

Dr. M. B. Magoffin, county medical director, announces clinics to be held at the public schools in Farrell, Wheatland, West Middlesex, Sharpsville, Stoneboro, New Lebanon and Mercer during the month of February.

The purpose is to determine from this test the inoculation value of the immunizing serum against diphetheria given the pupils.

SUE FOR PLEDGE

In the action of the officers of the United Jewish Campaign vs Sam
Lurie of Sharon where it is claimed Lurie failed to pay the remaining $450 of a $500 pledge and the officers brought suit the court made allowance in opinion of 15 days for the filing of supplemental papers.
It is the contention of the Lurie attorneys that no consideration in the pledge he signed nullifies that instrument.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations
Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

About the next thing you'll be seeing organized around here will be a Hunt Club. One with an $8 name, say the Snakes Rest Hunt Club or the Nimrod Field and Stream Club or something equally as doggy.

Truth is the folks hereabouts are going horse minded. After learning how to get more miles from the gallon, they have forsaken motors and turned to nags, and it won't be long until red coats and leather caps start appearing.

There was a time when the daily lunch argument concerned bridge, football and the trend of the stock market. Now the chatter is all on canters, gallops and falls, with the latter getting its share of the attention.

It seems for a time that some of the lads had difficulty in stopping their mounts and one of them absent minded reached for an emergency brake. The same young man is now one up on the Prince of Wales, in the matter of falls.

Eats his dinner at night from the depths of the big easy chair, and has that rolling walk affected by horsesmen. He rolls into the house and then falls into the easy chair.

Don't be surprised any day now if you see a lot of one nag stables going up on the North Hill and out along the Wilmington road.

Some years ago some councilman with an eye to civic beauty and all that sort of thing, originated the idea of having waste paper cans placed at various corners on Washington street. Smart idea. Kept a lot of paper off the streets and gave the boys something to lean against.

The cans have been used for mail boxes, fire alarm boxes or what's your guess, and have more than paid their cost. But even waste paper cans get the second handed look without paint. A few of them look like a Persian prayer rug that is spotted from years of use, and a couple of coats of paint would improve them considerably.

Something in an attractive garb would stand them out for what they are. Say a body of orange with a diagonal black stripe running down the side and a black top or a checkered top. Modernistic and all that sort of thing. But anything to relieve that mottled appearance where the paint has been worn off by some of the little group of serious thinkers who lean against them every day.

If you think the water supply around here is low, you ought to take a look at the reservoirs in the Horse Shoe Curve district above Altoona. The dams are down where they look as though a mole could nearly wade across without getting his chin wet.

Even the Susquehanna River is down. In ordinary times it is about a mile wide and an inch deep. Now it is not half that. The jagged rocks in the bed of the stream stick up, and from Clarks Ferry into Harrisburg the river looks as though it could be waded.

The police station has a new radio. A gift. And you should see that night turn out for the gadget in a big way. Tuned in on an old fashioned fiddler last night and Dave Nelson and Bob Dukes gave a demonstration of grace and beauty in an old time dance.

And any time music is hot enough to get a policeman to lift his dogs off the ground, you know it is good.

'Dja hear Herbert Hoover, Calvin
Coolidge, Will Rogers and Amos 'N Andy last night on the air? All of them joined in an appeal for the Red Cross fund being raised to relieve suffering.

New Officers Are Installed

P. H. C. Has Interesting Ceremony, Inducting
New Officers

GRAND SECRETARY SHARES IN PROGRAM

With many items of business disposed of at the session held by New Castle Circle No. 5 Protected Home Circle on Wednesday night that of the most importance was the annual installation of officers.

The ceremony in itself is most impressive and was open to the public. As installing officer it was the privilege of the circle to have with them Grand Secretary Joseph Spencer of Sharon. In exemplifying the beautiful work of installation he was ably assisted by Past President Gertrude Halboth as acting secretary, with Deputy Walter W. Schroeder and Trustee A. L. Conn as Guide and Companion.

The charges to the officers elect were impressively given by the presiding officer who paid a pretty tribute to the retiring President David Tucker, upon his efficiency and his term in office. At the close of the installation George W. Muse, the accountant in the most flowery manner presented Past President Tucker with the beautiful gold jewel from the circle. In responding, Mr. Tucker in a splendid address expressed his appreciation not only for the fine remembrance from the circle but for the kindness extended him through his term in office. Guardian Helen Ray was complimented upon her splendid work along social lines during the term and still retains that important office.

There was a tinge of sadness throughout the entire session for one of the most prominent men of the order was not there. The passing away of the Supreme Auditor and State Deputy Dr. R. G. Baird means much to the local circle where he had endeared himself to the members by his frequent visits.

Beautiful tributes to his memory were expressed by Accountant Muse and members who had been fraternally associated with Dr. Baird for years.

ally associated with Dr. Baird for years.

The new president Mrs. Mary Patterson is a woman of rare judgment and with all of the qualifications of making a splendid presiding officer.

On next Wednesday night the usual card party for members and their friends will be held and in connection with this a poverty social will be held, the proceeds to be used for charitable work.

An invitation has just come to the secretary requesting the members to attend the meeting of Sharon Circle No. 1 at Sharon on Monday, January 26 at which time degree teams from Conneaut circles when they will exemplify the beautiful Banner Degrees to a large class and F. B. Mallett, director of the field work will install the recently elected officers. Let's go.

The installation follows:
President, Mary Patterson.
Vice President, Nora McCann.
Guardian—Helen Ray.
Secretary—Lillie B. Jones.
Treasurer—George W. Wyman.
Accountant—George W. Muse.
Chaplain—Harry Mehlman.

"Tempted In All Points"

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

In that he himself hath suffered being tempted, he is able to succor them that are tempted.—Hebrews 2:18.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL.
Hebrews, 4:15, says that Jesus "was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin." So, the three temptations with which the tempter assaulted Jesus in that decisive battle of the ages represent every conceivable approach to the soul of any human being.

His first temptation is always to sinfully satisfy. "If Thou art the Son of God, command this stone that it become bread." Satisfy the legitimate wants of the physical nature in an illegitimate manner. This is the devil's lowest level of temptation. So the bandit steals and murders, the crook defrauds and the libertine commits adultery to satisfy the lust of the flesh in ways contrary to the word and will of God. Jesus' answer to this temptation was, "It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." God's word often says "Deny" where the devil's word says "Satisfy," and our choice results in either virtue or vice.

Sinfully Defy: Don't Defy!

Failing in the temptation to sinfully satisfy, there followed the second temptation to sinfully defy: "If thou therefore wilt worship before me, I shall all be thine." It was a frank proposal to compromise with wrong for the sake of the good that might come out of it. It was the familiar policy that "the end justifies the means." Here Satan proposes to relinquish all his hold upon "all the kingdoms of the world and the glory of them" on the basis of a moment's worship and recognition of his kinship by Jesus. Then again, the Christ wielded the sword of the Spirit by replying: "It is written thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve." So the devil says to us, "Theoretically religion is all right, but it can't always be applied, for business is business, and one must sometimes serve Mammon as well as God." It is the old temptation to sinfully defy him for the sake of the good that may come from a compromise with the devil.

Sinfully Glorify: Don't Crucify!

Even more subtle than his temptations to sinfully satisfy and sinfully defy, is the devil's third temptation to sinfully glorify: "If Thou be the Son of God, cast Thyself down hence: for it is written, He shall give His angels charge over thee, to keep thee: and in their hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone." It was a suggestion of a short cut to glory in the eyes of the crowds in the temple courts below. Dazzle the crowd with something spectacular. The fool people can be won by such a thriller rather than by an offensive cross; therefore, substitute "glorify self" for "crucify self." "And Jesus answering said unto him, it is said, thou shalt not make a trial of the Lord thy God."

Thus the devil completed every temptation he has either for Jesus or for us, and departed in defeat. The Paradise that was lost by the first Adam in a garden of plenty was regained in a wilderness of hunger by the last Adam, God's Perfect Man, Christ Jesus, whose victory avails for us as well as for Himself, "for as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive."

POLICE-FEDERAL AGENTS IN HUNT

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Police and Federal agents investigating the $50,000 faro game swindle which victimized Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, collector of Internal Revenue here, and Edward R. Litsinger, prominent political leader, announced today that search has been started for Jules (Nicky) Arnstein, reputed New York confidence man. One of the three authors of the crooked faro game participated in at a Springfield, Ill., hotel bore a strong resemblance to Arnstein, according to descriptions given detectives by Mrs. Blacklidge. Arnstein was seen here in the downtown district last Monday, federal agents learned. It was at that time that Mrs. Blacklidge had turned here to raise $50,000 to continue the card game in which she was already ahead $207,000, according to her story to Chicago police. Mrs. Blacklidge repeated to authorities that she had borrowed the money from Litsinger, one-time candidate for mayor, to post as guarantee in order to collect winnings of $207,000 in a faro game in which she had participated with three men Saturday night at Springfield. The three men together with the $50,000 disappeared from the hotel and have not since been seen.

Coke Company To Resume Operation

(International News Service)
UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 23.—Further operations of coke and coal companies in this district were foreseen today with the announcement that the Herbert Mine of the Connellsville Central Coal and Coke Company will resume work next week giving employment to nearly 200 men.

Orders have been issued for the firing of 160 ovens at once with the first coke to be produced next Monday. The company supplies the Sharon Steel Hoop Company.

For the past six months the plant has been operating two days a week, the two hundred men now on the payroll employed irregularly. Further workers are to be enlisted this week.

Gill had been in poor health for the past six years, and for two years was a patient in a sanitarium. Despondency over his health was believed to have prompted his action.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 23.—John W. Keller, recently in charge of the beautification of state highways, today took over the office as deputy secretary of forests and waters, to which he was named last evening by Governor Gifford Pinchot.

Keller replaces Dr. Joseph S. Illick, of New Cumberland, who had been in state service for nearly 25 years.

Appointment of Keller was the only one announced by the governor, but Dr. Clyde L. King, secretary of revenue, matched the Keller announcement with one that Benjamin G. Eynon, commissioner of motor vehicles, would be retained in his present post.

Retention of Eynon ended long speculation as to the course of the commissioner who had been reported as ready to resign his post. Eynon came to the motor vehicle bureau in 1919.

TURKLINS IN TURNER COOP
Peculiar Type Of Fowls Attract Attention Among Local People

There are three strange looking fowls in the chicken coop behind the Turner home, at the corner of Cedar and Clayton streets. They are not chickens nor are they turkeys, but they resemble both and are called "turklins".

Many times people have stopped at the Turner home and asked about those peculiar birds in the back yard. Were they half turkey and half chicken? No, they are native chickens of Europe, and are not mongrels but owe their strange, ill-proportioned appearance to old Mother Nature.

They are laying eggs and the eggs are good to eat—about the size of a chicken egg.

Tree Planting Not Very Easy
Workmen Are Completing Job Of Planting In Ward Park Today And Tomorrow

It is no easy job to plant trees at this time of year, workmen before the park improvement job have found. The ground is frozen about 12 inches down and it has been necessary for two men to spend a good many hours in planting the seven trees that are now standing upright in their allotted places around the park.

Five more trees will be planted, according to the workmen, before the park improvement job will be complete. Oak and maple trees predominate in the park now.

It is unusual to plant trees at this time of year, as the ground is so hard that it makes the job a difficult one. However, once the trees are planted the roots freeze to the ground and the soil stays around them, protectively.

Before the digging is commenced, the men make a circle on the ground about the size of a spare tire. All the earth inside the circle and down quite deep is removed and the tree roots are set in the hole with utmost care, and the soil is replaced.

Northern Pioneer Returns; Finds Buildings Larger, Human Nature Unchanged

By W. F. PETERSON
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—A veteran frontiersman of the far north, making one of his occasional forays outside the arctic circle, dropped into Chicago recently to give his views on the changing "outside world" and the subject of man in general, and incidentally, to deliver some specimens of rare birds to the Chicago Academy of Sciences.

While the hardened citizens of this city were exclaiming over the unseasonably warm weather, the northern pioneer, Captain Charles D. Brower by name, found the Lake Michigan breezes "right chilly" and allowed he'd be glad to get back to Point Barrow, Alaska, the northernmost settlement of North America. There, he says, the cold doesn't get into your bones—proving that the threadbare statement having to do with the heat and the humidity.

Before returning to Point Barrow, however, the captain hero of dozens of arctic adventures, was planning to spend a few weeks in Florida "just to see what it's like."

Captain Brower's home has been the starting point of numerous expeditions, the most famous of which was the flight of Wilkins and Eielson across the top of the world.

The hardy frontiersman went there 47 years ago and when there were no white men in the country, and no laws. He explored up and down the northern coast of Alaska, established the settlement of Point Barrow, and formulated his own statutes. Today he points to the fact that the colony has eight white inhabitants, a hospital, a school, a radio station, and a few Eskimo who can read and write.

Says Experience, Not Just Beauty, Best For Movies

Highest Value Is Placed On Veteran Artists In Filmland

(International News Service)
HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Jan. 23.—Unlike many other fields of endeavor the motion picture industry has found that its most valuable artists are well past the age usually recognized as marking the end of the average man's career.

Hollywood producers, however, agree that youth and beauty are highly essential and necessary to the motion pictures of today, but place the highest value on their veteran artists, they say form the backbone of productions that are appreciated and long remembered.

Years of patient training and experience were necessary to develop and round out the careers of the veteran actors and actresses and other artists of the profession who have attained success. Many of them have experienced hardships and have conquered obstacle after obstacle to attain their goals.

The producers also claim that not only actors, actresses and writers, but the members of any profession make their greatest success after 35.

Although he is 67, Captain Brower is practically as active as ever. He makes animal collections, sells guns, foodstuffs and traps to the natives and barbers with them for their furs. He is now writing a chronicle of his experiences.

The captain is noted chiefly for the heroism he displayed in saving 360 sailors marooned at Point Barrow in 1898, when their whaling vessels were caught in an ice jam. He rescued them, housed them in a warehouse and other buildings, fed them for a year, and sent them back to civilization without the loss of a single life.

An existence in the far north has its blessings, according to Captain Brower, and among them is the clarity of radio reception.

"Along in the winter," he said, "around 30 below and it begins to get dark, we can get almost any radio station in the world."

"First we hear the American stations—New York, Chicago, San Francisco—all of them. Along about four in the morning we pick up Japan and later on England, France, Holland and Germany may come in as clear as a bell."

Until recently Captain Brower was the United States commissioner at Point Barrow, maintaining law and order in his domain wasn't much of a job, however. In all his years in the north he says he has yet to find a dishonest Eskimo.

Asked about his impressions of the outside world after his many years of seclusion, the pioneer said: "I've been back off and on for the last 50 years, but civilization never seems to change much. The buildings are bigger, there are more of them, there are more things in the world. But human nature seems to be more or less constant."

Would Apportion States Congressmen On Vote In National Election

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Pennsylvania, which under the new apportionment is scheduled to lose two of its members in the House of Representatives, would instead be entitled to a representation of 37 members if the apportionment were to be based on the State's popular vote for president in 1928, according to a novel survey prepared by the census bureau for Senator Vandenberg of Michigan and presented by him to the Senate.

In view of Pennsylvania's population of 9,631,350 in the fifteenth decennial census taken in 1930, the State has been apportioned only 34 members in the Lower House instead of its present delegation of 36, but the 3,150,615 votes it cast in the presidential election of 1928 represents a greater proportion of the total vote cast and if it were to be used as a criterion of the State's representation there would be 37

Pennsylvania representatives, the figures show.

"The study is interesting," Senator Vandenberg declared, in submitting the figures, "in view of the movement to emphasize citizenship by the exclusion of aliens from the apportionment count. Of course, the best method of emphasizing and recognizing citizenship would be to exclude all but voters from the count. Either change would require a constitutional amendment."

The Michigan Senator said he had the survey prepared by the census bureau because he had been asked many times for the figures showing what would happen to the geographical and political complexion of Congress if the base of apportionment were to be changed and only the voters counted. Under the mythical scheme suggested, Pennsylvania would be entitled to 37 members instead of the 36 it now has and the 34 it will have after March 4, 1933.

Romantic Career Of Adventure Of Bavarian Baron Is Told

(International News Service)
DENVER, Colo., Jan. 23.—A romantic career of adventure on three continents came to a close recently with the death at Idledale, near here, of Hans Henry Preeg, 81, Bavarian baron and army officer, Indian fighter, pioneer and gold miner.

Preeg's life story reads like the work of some imaginative weaver of adventure plots. Born into an aristocratic Bavarian family, Preeg had before him a brilliant career as an army officer.

Accused unjustly of a crime, Preeg left his native country and came to the wilds of Colorado in the early '70s. Here he struck out into the most isolated region of the Rocky Mountains, where unassisted he built a log house and mined for gold.

When the man who committed the crime of which Preeg had been accused confessed, Preeg refused to return to Bavaria, but continued to live in Colorado. He made many friends among the Indians and pioneer miners who then inhabited the mountains.

Following the Meeker massacre he served 45 days as a scout and rendered valuable service to United States troops because of his intimate knowledge of the mountains and the Ute Indians.

Later he sold his mining interests in Colorado and migrated to Alaska during the gold rush. From there he went to South Africa, returning to Colorado to continue his gold mining in his adopted state. For a time he was associated with the late Winfield Scott Stratton of Colorado Springs, who made millions from his gold strike in the Cripple Creek region.

During the World War Preeg lost seven sons in the German army. He was intensely loyal to his adopted country, however, purchasing Liberty bonds and in many other ways demonstrating his patriotism.

In recent years much of Preeg's once-extensive mining properties had slipped through his hands, some of it being sold for taxes. In his last years he found himself in actual want, but refused to accept charity. Friends were attempting to obtain a pension from the government for the services Preeg rendered as a scout. Negotiations were under way at the time of his death.

Fathers Vote On Lovers Lane For Their Youths

English Lads And Lassies Must Have Their Trysting Place

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Lovers' rights are still protected in the English countryside.

Youths of the village of Bungay, in Suffolk, complained recently that the locally famous "kissing-gate" was becoming worn out by decades of country love-making and the "lover's lane" dilapidated.

As a result the district council of Bungay called a meeting and decided that its young men and maidens should be properly provided with the necessary means for watching the Suffolk moon, among other things.

Not that, at first glance, one would have suspected it of the council. The venerable company sitting in the Oddfellows' Hall was composed of a malt producer, a leather merchant, an ironmonger, a wine merchant, a bank manager, and a retired pork butcher.

However, Suffolk is a kissing county and each village is proud of its lover's lane, of which there are as many as waterfalls, so the Bungay fathers voted for the restoration of the Council's expense—the lover's lane. It decreed the cutting back of rank undergrowth in the lane, the diverting of a muddy, foot-chilling stream, and the erection of a new "kissing-gate" with "oak posts and rails to keep the cattle out."

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal
Written for Central Press

I find it a satisfaction to recall that I was one of the group interested in farming who ten years ago insisted that we must keep a tariff duty on wheat.

We did have a tariff before the World war, and in 1919 a duty of 35 cents a bushel was put back on. In 1922 this was lowered to 20 cents, in 1924 it was increased again to 42 cents, and it has stood ever since at that figure.

From time to time people have had a lot of fun with the tariff on wheat. They have been fond of saying that the farmers have been handed another gold-brick, since an import duty cannot be made effective on a product of which we export a surplus. If I have heard those words once, I have heard them a thousand times.

Of course it is true that a tariff is not effective as long as we are exporting wheat. That is not the idea at all. A wheat tariff is more like fire insurance. We may never need it, but when we do, we need it badly, and we need it right away.

That time comes when, for any reason, we stop exporting wheat, and we thereupon become independent of world wheat prices. If world prices keep on going down, as they did last summer and fall, this nation would then begin to import wheat.

Why didn't that happen? Because we had the 42-cent tariff ready and waiting, and did not have a delay of a year or two for congress to pass a law.

That is why the Wheat Stabilization corporation, with the aid of the farm board's millions, has been able for the last two months to hold wheat prices far above the export level.

Wheat is cheap enough, in all conscience. But if the 42-cent tariff did not protect us, wheat would have been pouring in here from all over the world. As it is, the demoralized world price is dangerously close to an import level, duty or no duty, and we would feel safer if the tariff rate were 63 cents instead of 42 cents.

In short, things have worked out just about as far-seeing people thought they would. The ridiculed wheat tariff duty, useless for years as Johnny-on-the-spot the instant it was needed.

Everybody must admit, hereafter, that you can make a duty effective when exports stop. And even if nothing else happens, I hope to hear less about handing gold-bricks to farmers.

Major Gene Tunney Faces Social Winter

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 23.—who acquired his rank and title by virtue of appointment to the staff of Governor Wilbur L. Cross, has a busy winter ahead of him. Every military center in Connecticut plans to give a military ball in honor of the governor and his staff, following the inaugural ball at which Major Tunney was the center of interest.

Such balls are planned by New Haven, Bridgeport, New London, Norwich, Middletown, Waterbury, and Torrington. There is a chance that other towns will hold such affairs also. If the major is to attend, Governor Cross must order Tunney out on service.

Survey Shows Air Of New York City Dirtiest In June

Wind Plays An Important Part In City's Health-fulness

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—June was New York's dirtiest month in 1930, and December its cleanest.

Graphs, tables and charts, show that the month of June averaged the highest daily air pollution with 5.73 tons of dirt suspended in each cubic mile of air. December, the cleanest month, had only 2.65 tons to the cubic mile.

Prepared by David H. Morris, meteorologist at the Central Park observatory, the figures of the first annual air pollution survey here shows that 8 o'clock in the morning was the dirtiest period in the day, and between noon and 2 the cleanest.

February was another dirty month, averaging 5.29 tons, and November was runned-up to the 12th month with only 2.79 tons of suspended dirt to the cubic mile. One of the dirtiest days in December was the day after Christmas when 4.70 tons of suspended dirt were found to the cubic mile of air, and Dec. 15 with only .59 tons was the cleanest.

Wind, Dr. Morris found, had considerable to do with the amount of dirt that floated over the city. Coming from the northwest, the wind brought 8 per cent less dirt than

Nazarene Church Revival Proves Of Much Interest

Singing Is One Of The Features Of The Services At That Church

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Sam Moley went a-fishing here and was arrested. No game warden or forest ranger interrupted his activities. No conservation officer seized him for lacking a game license or of exceeding the catch allowed him by the law. His was a different kind of fishing.

Attached to a broomstick which he carried was a small iron hook. In his right hand he held a pair of pliers. With the pliers, police say he admitted, he cut a small inconspicuous hole in a plate glass show window.

Through the little hole he poked his improvised fishing rod. The Izaak Walton of the Bowery then patiently angled. Boots, shoes, bologna, sausage—appeared on his hook as if by magic, occasionally a roast chicken. The food he ate. The rest he pawned or sold.

Patrolman Terrence Mulligan, alas, one day appeared at the scene of Moley's fishing preserve on the lower East Side, and Sam, rod, bait and all, were taken to a nearby station house. There, declared the police in the light of three previous arrests which they say they discovered the fishing season for Sam was closed.

Increasing attendance and interest is making the revival services in progress at the Church of the Nazarene, West Falls and Beaver streets, unusually successful. The preaching of Rev. Charles F. Whetsell, the pastor, is bringing many to a realization of the benefits of a better life, while the singing directed by Rev. Harry Dean is proving an inspiration to all.

At the services held last evening there were special songs "A Child Of His Care" and "Carry Me Back to Calvary" were rendered in an appealing manner.

Rev. Whetsell had for his text Isaiah 53-32-33 "He shall see the travail of souls".

The singers on Friday evening will be Earl Baker and Dave Wheale.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Child Expert Berates Old Wives' Tales

Reassures Expectant Mothers On Pre-Natal Myths

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

An expectant mother often has a mixture of emotion. Frequently she gets depressed merely because of her physical discomfort. During these long months, when she ought to have most diversions, social contacts and recreations, she has least. Feeble-minded customs among people who presume to be intelligent add to her burdens by commanding her to stay at home and avoid the very persons, places and activities which for her health and the health of her child she is most in need of.

No wonder, then, she thinks a great deal about herself and often entertains anxieties. She is more than ordinarily open to suggestion, and the older women who most often visit with her may be pretty full of superstitions. The curious, brutal thing about superstitions is that nearly all of them are morbid; most carry penalties and not rewards.

The expectant mother is told of those women who have had miscarriages, and is given a long string of warnings. She must listen also to the stories about mothers who have lost their lives during or soon after the confinement. When these brainless busybodies have no further twaddle they will chatter about baby markings. Avoid them now, and pledge yourself to the Eternal never to be like them.

It may be presumptuous for a mere father to offer advice on such matters. No man can really know much about the emotions and state of mind of the expectant mother. Nevertheless, there have been careful searches through the ages by the ablest scientists of the world for evidence of such pre-natal influences. Not one of them has found a grain of proof that any mental or emotional experience the expectant mother has, that anything she hears or sees, has any influence whatsoever upon the physical features, or mental or moral traits of the child carried in her body. Of course some children have birth marks, an occasional one is born with a missing hand or finger or with some other physical irregularity. A rare few, indeed, are born with defective brains. But the cause of such things is unknown, although it certainly is not traceable to mental or emotional experience of the pregnant mother.

If you are an expectant mother you may ask: "Can't I make my child become a musician by listening to fine music during its pre-natal life? Can't I, by looking often at great works of art, make it become an artist? Can't I, by being very religious now, endow the child with religious zeal?"

"No," is the answer to all of these. Of course you can, by such procedure, increase your own interest in art and music and religion. Then after your child is born you may continue with these interests which your child, loving you, may imitate. Now is an excellent time for you to prepare yourself to be a good mother of your baby, once he has been born.

Ancient Cannon To Be Exhibited At Ticonderoga

Symbols Of Romantic Day Are Being Taken To Famous Fort

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Nickel and battered, their barrels lined heavily with the rust of 400 years, four small cannons are on their way to a final resting place. Symbols of a romantic day long past, they are being taken to Revolutionary Fort Ticonderoga from here, where they will be mounted on the crumbling parapets as part of the old fortress's museum.

Their cast iron barrels no longer are capable of pouring forth the grapeshot that riddled the hulls and tore gaping holes in the rigging of Sir Francis Drake's little ships. Gunners never again will ram powder and wads down their muzzles, swing them around by the breech knobs, and touch them off with their lighted fuses.

As part of the fortifications of Fort San Juan, in Nicaragua, built by the Spanish Conquistadores in 1522 these old pieces, the first mounted and fired in the new world, saw hectic days. They helped repel raids by Captain Kidd and some of his less notorious contemporaries on the little Spanish settlement.

They were valuable units to the armament of the old fort which was one of the concentration points of the gold mined under the harsh Conquistadores. The fort was considered invincible in those days. A siteder for freebooters and buccanniers of the Spanish Main, it had to be.

Panama City was captured and sacked, Jamaica and Charleston, S. C. were menaced by pirates but Fort San Juan "The Gibraltar of the Americas" escaped all the attacks until 1780 when an expedition from Jamaica under the command of a young post captain bombarded the fortress and town and finally captured San Juan.

The captain was Horatio Nelson. In the severe fighting the great naval commander received critical wounds that caused him to lose the sight of one of his eyes. Following the 10 days' siege and final capture of the town, Nelson pressed on in his attempt to break the Spanish power in Central America.

As time passed, the guns became obsolete. The Nicaraguan government, however, kept them in good condition, using them in occasional revolutionary outbreaks. As late as 1909, the pieces were used effectively to frighten insurrectionists.

Now, however, their days of fighting are over. At Fort Ticonderoga, they will serve only as decorations, and reminders of the times when pirates and freebooters sailing the seas and attacking the rich ports of the newly established colonies, could be repelled only by small, unrifled muzzle loading ten pounders.

Clothing Store Robber Captured, Two Make Escape

Pittsburgh Clothing Store Visited By Robbers, But Get Only $250

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Jan. 23.—With one alleged bandit in custody two others, who made their way into a clothing store here and escaped with about $250, were still at large today.

Mrs. Fanny Wise was in the establishment at the time and was counting $2,000 which was spread along the counter when the two men entered. They frightened her into a back room, where she called her son Joe, 23. The latter seized a revolver and chased the bandits into the front room and the two hold-up men dashed out the door snatching the bills from the counter as they ran.

Still brandishing the revolver, the son saw one man getting in a machine and opened fire. The man dropped from the running board, while the two men in the car drove off.

When captured, after returning the fire of the store owner's son, the prisoner gave his name as Matthew Korfa, 23.

B. & O. Asked To Reduce Speed At Village Crossing

(International News Service) DAWSON, Pa., Jan. 23.—Citizens here want safety, even if it means long waits at railroad crossing while freight trains meander by.

A borough ordinance was passed by the town council restricting the speed of all Baltimore and Ohio railroad trains from going through the borough at faster than 20 miles an hour.

Half the council wanted the restriction, while the other half disliked the thought of long waits while long freight trains passed.

The burgess, D. H. Russell, broke the tie. He voted for the ordinance.

Siamese Twins Sue to Break 'Bondage'

The Beautiful English Girls, Joined Together by a Ligature Connecting the Two Bodies, Ask the Law to Free Them from the Man and Woman Who for Twenty-one Years Posed as Their Uncle and Aunt

By ALICE ALDEN

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 23.—The Siamese twins are asking for their freedom. But it is not from each other that beautiful Daisy and Violet Hilton desire to be free, but from Mr. and Mrs. Myer Rothbaum, the couple who for 21 years have been thought to be the aunt and uncle of the Hiltons.

Behind the prosaic court action instituted by the girls who ask not only their freedom from the Rothbaums, but a court order for a receiver of their property and an amazing story. It is a drama of greed, of exploitation, of poverty, a drama that has about it something of a Dickensian flavor. And appropriately enough the story of the Hiltons begins in one of the poorest districts of London, where the twins were born on February 5, 1908.

It does not require an excess of imagination to picture the grief and despair of their mother, a poor woman, when she discovered that the twin daughters born to her were joined together by a ligature which connected the two tiny bodies at the base of the spine. Convinced that it would be difficult to care for them properly even had they been normal the mother knew that to look after them and bring them up under existing conditions, was virtually impossible. And so, according to the story told by the twins, their mother sold them to the nurse who looked after her, when the babies were but twenty days old. The nurse, whose name was Mary Hilton, had promised the mother that she would rear and care for them tenderly and kindly. And so, a deed to the two girls was executed and recorded in England. And Mary Hilton became sole guardian of her strange charges.

The Siamese twins say that they have no memories of real childhood. As soon as it was possible to do so, they were taken to circuses and exhibited as curiosities. Even while the babies played with their toys, they were already being exploited.

When the sisters were eight years of age, their foster mother, Mrs. Hilton, died. But some three years prior to her death, she had made a will seeking to transfer her title to the twins, to her daughter, Edith Emily Rothbaum—the Mrs. Rothbaum named in the present Hilton suit. This will was duly probated. And then, say the Hiltons, they were taken to the United States. Here they were exhibited and became famous.

The twins say that they have earned as high as $3,500 a week, but allege that the Rothbaums have invested these earnings in their own name, and provided the twins merely with the necessities of life. Violet and Daisy were not permitted to associate with other children or to attend school, they say. But as they believed Mrs. Rothbaum was their aunt, and that Mrs. Hilton had been their grandmother, they obeyed the Rothbaums implicitly.

As they grew older, they began to ask questions about themselves and their parentage and also demanded to be allowed to handle some of the money they had been instrumental in earning. This line of conduct, they allege, made the Rothbaums guard them even more closely. When they became too insistent in their questions and demands, they were frightened with threats, of being placed in an asylum.

It was in 1927 that Rothbaum had each girl sign a contract to work for him for $500 a week. It is this contract that the girls are seeking to have voided. And as the girls are now 21 years old, they claim that they are entitled to hold property in their own names and rights. Therefore, they are asking for their money, which they allege in their petition, has been invested by Rothbaum in his name.

Whatever is the outcome of this strange case, which moves graphically from the slums of London to the palatial home in San Antonio, Texas, where the twins now live, one thing is certain. It is that there is no such thing as the willing of one human being to another, and that under the terms of such a document the twins are in bondage. They are as unfree in their demands for justice as they have always been in all matters affecting their happiness and welfare.

Bo Broadway by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—It's a notorious fact that any institution catering solely to the highbrow, to the exclusion of the Sweaty Mob, eventually curls up and dwells like a slice of warm cucumber.

The Century Theatre in New York, built twenty-three years ago, is a fair example. It was the realization of an artistic dream and had not been standing long before it became a business white elephant.

It was so darned highbrow that old Hoi Polloi was afraid to walk past it, and used to cross over on the other side of the street.

The designers were so hopped up over "aesthetic values" that they forgot all about acoustics. Half way back in the auditorium you couldn't hear what was going on back of the footlights.

When the Highbrows found out that a mouse had fallen into the custard, as it were, they came down off their perch and tried to coax the longshoremen in. But it was too late.

Old John Q. Public was scared.

THE BARD OF AVON.

The corner stone of the Century was laid ten days before Christmas, in 1908. "Jerry" Farrar was on hand to do a little trilling. Jack Finley, then President of City College, and Gus Thomas, playwright, unleashed some baritone blarney; and Richard Watson Gilder, Lit'ry Sacred Cow of the day, read a poem, entitled "Shakespeare's New Home."

Poor Shakespeare. Little did they think that less than a quarter of a century later he would be dispossessed—thrown out on his ear!

One of the more refined of the two most refined morning newspapers in Manhattan, next morning, devoted a column to the doins at the laying of the Century cornerstone.

Mrs. Otto H. Kahn attended in a costume of coconut-colored chiffon cloth, a picture hat of chocolate-colored satin and velvet with saffers.

Mrs. Clarence Mackay appeared in baby lamb and black velvet combined with lace, a huge pendant of turquoise and diamonds and an indescribable ornament of sapphires and diamonds on her corsage.

LOOTED CACHES.

Sic transit gloria mundi—or, as Mary Twain used to say: "It's better to be a young June-bug, than an old bird of paradise."

Here are the wreckers cracking apart the masonry of the Century Theatre, and public interest centers on the cornerstone.

Back in the days B. P.—Before Prohibition—when The Boys laid a cornerstone, they used to stick in a bottle of liquor, along with the "deathless" current documents. Several recent formal cornerstone openings in Tammany Town have had to be abandoned when it was found that the stone had been cracked before the formal party and the hooch embodied therein made off with.

A DEAL IN FUTURES.

Extremes meet on Broadway like a cat curled up before a log fire.

When you buy tickets at the Ethel Barrymore Theatre these days an attendant escorts you into the darkened auditorium and invites you to assume a sitting posture in the particular chairs offered you for sale.

While down the street at the National Theatre, where "Grand Hotel," the hit of the season, is located, the girl in the box office says: "The best I got is two seats in the fifteenth row, two weeks from 'tomorrow night.'"

"You have no better'n 'at, eh?" "Yes," replies the attendant. "I can give you two in the fourteenth row—but that'll be three weeks from nex' Sat'day."

A BIT OF BOTTL.

Basil McKinley was out walking with his son one afternoon recently. They passed a second-hand book stall and Basil said to Junior: "Look, me lad! Yonder is 'The Life and Works of James G. Blaine,' retailing at fifteen cents."

"Whoinell's James G. Blaine?" queried Junior.

Recounting the incident Basil said to his son: "What's the trouble? Am I too old, or is he too young?"

Rev. W. E. Frampton Highly Indorses The New Remedy---Nu-Erb

Expresses Gratitude to NU-ERB Man Who Told Him About This Wonderful Medicine—Tells How It Helped Him.

Prominent and respected citizens all over the country have given high testimony to the great powers of Dr. French's Nu-Erb in overcoming suffering, but the experience given here by Rev. W. E. Frampton, pastor of M. E. Church of Clark, Pa., is of particular interest.

"I can highly recommend NU-ERB for I have used three bottles and have been greatly improved; kidney troubles were at the bottom of it all and must have been the cause of aches and pains through my joints that caused me great discomfort. My liver was sluggish too, and my bowels were habitually constipated.

"For eight or nine years I had been this way and when I was telling the NU-ERB man recently about these troubles of mine he advised me to give NU-ERB a trial. This I decided to do and in a few short weeks it has helped me wonderfully. My stomach gives me practically no trouble now, kidneys have been strengthened. The pains are practically all gone and my bowels are acting regularly. My general health, too, has improved and I am feeling better in every way. I am very glad to indorse such a medicine.

How Nu-Erb Acts

Every day, gas ceases to form on the stomach, headaches pass off, the giddy feelings disappear, the kidneys are regulated so that backaches and painful muscles and joints are relieved. The nerves are soothed so that sleep becomes sound and restful.

Eckerd's Cut Rate Store, is the only place in New Castle where Nu-Erb may be purchased. Go see the Nu-Erb man now making his headquarters there and let him explain to you the merits of this remarkable medicine.

ELEVEN NAMED AS "MASTER FARMERS"

By HAROLD E. MYERS
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Jan. 23.—Pennsylvania's fifteenth annual state farm show today swung into its final session, with announcements of grand champions in the baby beef classes and sale of the ribbon winners the outstanding activities on the day's program.

State champions in the beef divisions were expected to be named about noon—just in time to go on the auction block.

Champions in the baby beef divisions have already been named for three counties—Dauphin, Cumberland, and Lebanon. The Dauphin county 4-H club member, Shelley Kaylor, of Elizabethtown, carried off local honors. Lebanon county's prize winners were Russell Stoner, Lebanon, and Isaac Smith, Annville, while the Cumberland county honors went to John Balsh, Mechanicburg.

High Prices Prevail.
Highest prices ever paid were recorded at the sale of Droc and Poland-China swine at the show yesterday, officials announced today. An entry in each division, owned by Pennsylvania State College, went for $80, while the lowest price for each class was $36.

Senior and grand champion bull in the show's cattle lists was Earl-dale End, an Aberdeen-Angus entered by Guy C. Hope, New Wilmington. Pleasant Hill Fanny, 4th owned by F. A. Woods, Mercer, was named senior and grand champion female.

In the poultry division of the show, the Whatglan Farm, of Lancaster county, won grand championship honors with a Black Minorca cock, while Landis and French, of York, took the female grand championship with a dark Cornish hen.

White Rocks shown by the Locust Knoll Arms, of Media, won the grand championship trio honors; Beck's Turkey Farm, of Rockwood, won the turkey championship and in the National Silver Wyandotte meet, J. A. Bistline, of Longwood, Pa., won all championships—male, female and pen.

Will Close Tonight.
The show will close at 10 p. m. tonight, with a circus presented in the main arena, and a band concert by the Harrisburg Boy's band.

Attendance at the show to date has totaled 215,000 persons, against the 150,000 estimated by officials before the exposition opened.

And interest in the exposition, keener than ever this year, is expected to pull today's attendance up to the point where all records for

Gringo Hikers Safe In Mexico Says Traveler

College Professor Finds Life Safe When Attired As Hobo

(International News Service)

FORT WORTH, Texas, Jan. 23.—Hoboling through Mexico attired in tattered clothing is neither hazardous nor difficult, according to Prof. W. J. Hammond, head of Texas Christian University's history department, who is just back from a walking tour of the northern section of the republic.

Prof. Hammond and a companion set out over Mexico's roads and trails, without much money and with very few clothes, in pursuance of the professor's work in gathering material for a forthcoming history of "Our Southern Border-lands."

"There wasn't any danger even when the peons told the pair they were in a region infested with bandits; or at least, danger did not present itself," said Prof. Hammond. "We didn't have to look long for the bandits; in fact, they saw us first. However instead of being shot at sunrise or held for ransom, we were given food and sent on our way by the 'bad men'. We merely entertained them by singing some of their folk songs."

In the opinion of the two travelers, conditions insofar as danger from brigands and Indians is concerned, are much different in Mexico than they were even a very few years ago. Almost without exception, the natives treated the wanderers with the utmost courtesy and consideration.

Prof. Hammond was high in his praise of the development work being done under the guidance of President Ortiz Rubio.

Walks To Hospital With Neck Broken

CULVER CITY, Calif., Jan. 23.—Her neck broken and her skull fractured, Jessie Ligertwood, 27, Hollywood, walked into the Emergency hospital last night and explained that she had been injured in an airplane crash. Thirty minutes later she was dead.

Miss Ligertwood was flying with Frank Bush, Hollywood, when he attempted to land at night at the unlighted Culver City airport. The landing wheels of the plane hit a high tension wire surrounding the field and the ship overturned. A strand of wire caught the girl around the neck and caused the fracture, surgeons said. Bush received minor bruises.

Rescue Miner Buried Alive For 183 Hours

German Miner Is None The Worse For Long Stay Underground

(International News Service)

COLOGNE, Jan. 23.—Fritz Vienpahl, a German miner, was rescued and is healthily enjoying his life after being buried alive for 183 hours 1700 feet below the surface. The wonderful rescue of Vienpahl is extraordinary in the history of mining.

Soon after reaching his place in the Victor 1-11 mine near Castrop, the gallery in which Vienpahl worked together with his comrade Gatzahn suddenly collapsed. Vienpahl found himself separated from his comrade and immediately began to dig himself out. For hours he worked feverishly only to find that there was absolutely no chance left for him to escape from his trap, which was only 12 feet long and 6 feet wide. In hopeless despair he listened for two days to the faint morse signals of his comrade growing weaker and weaker. At last they stopped entirely.

On the third day, when Vienpahl had already given up hope ever to see his family again, the rescuers, who had worked in shifts since the catastrophe succeeded in getting so near to Vienpahl's trap that they could locate and signal him to hold out "just for a little while longer."

The dead body of another worker already had been found with his pit lamp still attached to his breast. But the rescuers had to proceed with utmost care to avoid any further collapse and approached Vienpahl's position only inch by inch. A high-pressure tube was drilled through all the masses of coal that still lay between the buried miner and life, by which Vienpahl was not only supplied with fresh air but also with liquid food, especially prepared for him according to medical advice. The next day, Vienpahl had regained all his courage and continuously talked to his rescuers through the tube. Jokingly he asked: "What's new today?"

At last, after seven days and eight nights had passed, he could embrace the men who had worked continuously to save his life. He felt perfectly well but was nevertheless transferred to the mine hospital to forestall any reaction of his terrible experience. After a few days Vienpahl was dismissed and is having a vacation before again taking up his work in the mine.

Public Schools Assist Cripples

Special Classes Are Adopted In Many Cities Of Country

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Public schools in the United States are rapidly paying more attention to the special needs of crippled children, according to a study bulletin issued by the office of education of the interior department.

The fact that crippled children number one for every 400 of general population has prompted 85 cities to establish special classes to aid the handicapped to secure an education equal to that of the healthy child.

In 1899 Chicago set up the first public school facilities for cripples in this country. Today Chicago has four schools providing for more than 1,600 cripples. Ohio leads in the number of cities that have special classes, 10 municipalities offering such service.

The department's bulletin states that much outside aid has been given to schools in establishing facilities for handicapped children. Various clubs and organizations, together with the Red Cross, have donated their money and services. Infantile paralysis is given as the chief cause of disability. It accounts for the physical handicap in 45 percent of the cases.

Special descriptions are given in the study bulletin of schools in Dayton, O., Newark, N. J., and Detroit, Mich., where it is said unusual work is being done.

Further Defeat Of The Old Gray Mare

PARIS, Jan. 23.—The French State Railroad has at last decided to do away with its "cavalry," and to replace the old horse-drawn delivery vans with motor trucks of the most modern type.

This news is hailed by the French press with great elation as evidence of the efficiency of the directors in discovering that an automobile truck can do just twice the work of a horse van, even in Paris traffic.

The "Intransigent," Paris' most influential evening newspaper, even goes so far as to print half a column praising the foresightedness of the French nation and the railroad executives in particularly in concluding that horses will be banished from the city some day, may be.

Earth Is Convex, We Live Inside Says Theorist

Scientist Wants Congressional Committee To Give An Opinion

By GEORGE E. DOYING
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 23.—Is old Mother Earth flat, convex or concave?

The masses believe her to be a globe while the Zion City residents declare she is flat.

Gustav F. Ebbing, who attained national wide publicity in 1928 when he filed suit seeking to enjoin Chas. G. Dawes then president of the Senate after certifying the electoral college vote on the grounds that Mr. Hoover had not been a resident of the United States long enough to qualify for the presidency, is just as firm in his belief that the earth is convex. He claims that it is hollow and we live on the inside.

Ebbing is sure his theory is correct—so sure that he has asked Senator Robert J. Bulkeley (D) of Ohio, to use his influence in having a congressional committee appointed to study the subject and decide the "controversy" once and for all time.

The committee would, according to the plan outlined by Ebbing in a letter to the Buckeye state's junior senator call in authorities of the three beliefs, study their expoundings and then come to a conclusion that would "correct the terrible mistake now being taught school children the world over."

Congressional authority for this "philanthropic" enterprise results from the fact that congress has control of the United States coast and that the findings of this commission would correct erroneous orders to this division according to the sponsors of the plan.

"And," continues Ebbing's letter, "statistics show that it costs about $700 to teach each child the shape of the earth. Our nation therefore wantonly dissipates more than $150,000,000,000 to teach a proven falsehood."

"The small cost of such a fact-finding investigation surely would amply repay the nation in its final analysis and at a cost of almost nothing we could know the truth, rather than believe something that was handed down to us as a teaching from antiquity."

Ebbing ran for congress in the November 4 election, using as the platform the sole issue that the world was convex. He polled 101 votes from the 21st Ohio district, running a poor third.

30 Years Married, Hurts Wife In Hug

NEW CASTLE, Eng., Jan. 23.—After thirty years of married life Jack Smith of this town broke his wife's ribs in an embrace.

Doctor Tells Some Causes Of Nosebleed

Medical Writer Discusses Common Ailment

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Nosebleed ranges in importance all the way from simple annoyance to occasionally a fatal outcome.

The causes are various, some quite plain, some quite obscure.

One, of course, is injury, as any pugilist can tell you. "A rap on the back" is the etiologic factor in the utmost chronic nasal hemorrhage of the exponents of the manly art. Or, in other words, fighting results in a lot of bloody noses.

Simple spontaneous nosebleed may come from congestion due to change of temperature, becoming overheated, very hot weather and extreme exertion. In such cases it is probably a safety valve, relieving not only the turgescence of the nasal mucous membrane but also the general blood pressure.

High blood pressure causes frequent nosebleeds. So does heart and arterial disease. You may remember the first Sherlock Holmes story "A Study in Scarlet." The scarlet, which was studied was blood. It came not from the body of the murdered person, but from the bleeding nose of the murderer, Jefferson Hope, who was the victim of an aneurysm.

Chronic nosebleed in the vast majority of cases comes from small ulcerations on the nasal septum. To get rid of them they should be treated by a physician.

If it is serious, the ordinary treatment of nosebleed, until help comes consists first in keeping the patient as quiet as possible. Any exertion may cause the bleeding to start up again. The important thing is to promote clotting which will automatically stop the bleeding and then to take care not to break up the clot.

Make the patient sit leaning forward with elbows on knees. Get a towel wet in cold water and have it held tightly against the nose. This should be continued for thirty minutes to give the blood a chance to coagulate. If the blood does clot in the nose, do not pull out the clots, because removing them will only start the bleeding up afresh. Pushing cotton plugs into the nose will start the blood to coagulate.

The old plan of putting a cold key down the back of the neck is not entirely superstition. A German physician, Winternitz, has studied extensively the distribution of blood mass in the body due to reflex stimulation of different parts of the body with heat and cold. For instance, when ice is put on the spine the blood goes to the feet and they get warm. Cold water on the back frequently will stop a paroxysm of asthma. Hot or cold applied to the feet influences circulation in the head. Winternitz found that cold applied to the back of the neck caused a distinct diminution in the size of the blood vessels in the nose. This, of course, would tend to cause cessation of the bleeding. Thus the old wives method of putting the cold key down the back of the nosebleeder is justified by experimental research.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

GROW QUALITY CHICKS TO GET FLOCK PROFITS

Quality chicks help to fill the egg basket later when they come into production.

Lawrence county poultrymen who buy their chicks find that early orders bring them the kind of chicks they want and when they want them delivered.

With present prices it takes better than average birds to make a profit. A summary of 78 poultry farm records kept in Pennsylvania in 1929 showed that when hens averaged 99 eggs for the year the cost per dozen was 33.3 cents and the yearly net profit per hen was only 25 cents. Hens that averaged 143 eggs, however, returned a profit of $1.11 for the year and the cost per dozen was 29.3 cents. With still better production, 166 eggs a hen the cost per dozen was reduced to 26.7 cents a dozen and the net profit for the year was $1.86 a hen.

If such figures are kept in mind when chicks are ordered, they will help the poultryman to secure his chicks from flocks of high average egg production. Pennsylvania now has many breeders who have brought their flocks to a point where profit is assured for those who purchase chicks, provided they do a good job of raising the pullets.

carefully plan your farm garden. This will result in a saving of several dollars in seed, more economical use of space, better arrangements and reduced labor.

In planning the garden the whole family is interested, since there are likes and dislikes in individuals and families. One winter evening should be sufficient for this important task. While it is best to plan to plant the vegetables most liked, variety should not be sacrificed. In the well-balanced garden 25 to 30 different vegetables will be grown, and these will be available as many months as possible.

Garden plans should include several important points. The garden should be large enough to furnish a sufficient quantity of a large variety of vegetables for a 12 month supply. A rectangular or square shaped garden is most convenient for soil preparation and cultivation. The garden should be located conveniently near the house. The most convenient arrangements is obtained when the vegetables are planted in long rows spaced for either hand or horse cultivation.

PLANTS GET RUN OUT WHEN VIRUS STRIKES

Every farmer knows that his plants "run out" and that frequently this condition is very difficult to control. Recently, intensive experiments by plant disease research workers have revealed that the "run out" plants really are diseased. Neither fungi nor bacteria have been found guilty of this charge, but a virus in the sap causes the condition.

Both plants and animals are attacked by diseases of a virus origin. In plants such diseases as potato mosaic, raspberry mosaic, the leaf curl, and peach yellows are examples of virus diseases. In animals such well known diseases as hog cholera, foot and mouth disease rabies, certain types of colds, and small pox are caused by viruses.

Sometimes when a virus is introduced into a new host, very severe damage results. Again virus diseases are transmitted from one kind of plants to another. To help to control such diseases in raspberries the Pennsylvania State College extension service has issued Circular 133, which may be obtained from the office of the Agricultural Extension Association No. 9 Dean block, 0.7upside d —or—

FALL PIG CROP LESS THAN THAT OF 1929.

Pennsylvania's 1930 fall pig crop is 7.6 per cent less than that of the fall of 1929, a survey conducted by the Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the Postoffice Department through the rural mail carriers, shows.

For the United States as a whole the decrease is only one per cent. Increases of about 2 per cent in the North Central states, which furnish most of the market supply of hogs, and of 14 per cent in the Western states are offset by decreases of about seven per cent for both the North and South Atlantic states, and 22 per cent for the South Central States.

When the indications of both the June and December surveys are combined, the total pig crop for the United States in 1930 is four per cent smaller than in 1929. The North Central states' total pig crop is one and one half per cent smaller.

Reports on the number of sows bred or to be bred for farrowing in the spring of 1931 in Pennsylvania indicate only a slight decrease from the number which farrowed in the spring of 1930. The number of sows farrowing the past fall in Pennsylvania was about nine per cent less than in the fall of 1929 and six per cent more than in the spring of 1930.

FARMERS CAN PRODUCE EMERGENCY HAY CROPS

Indications point to 1931 as a year when emergency hays will be needed on many farms. While the drought of the past year is to blame we must plan for the future. It is possible to provide hays from other crops.

Wheat cut in the early milk stage made hay containing about as much digestible nutrients as timothy cut in bloom. Rye cut before bloom also makes fair hay.

Oats cut in the early milk stage makes a good hay. Sweet clover sown with the oats on well-limed land may be tall enough to cut with the oats, improving its protein content, and may be cut or pastured later. Canada field peas or spring vetch are sometimes sown with oats for hay. Unless they are well inoculated and the soil fertile, they seldom pay however.

Soy beans make an emergency

hay having a feeding value similar to alfalfa. They fit into the rotation better where they can be followed by small grain, as clover sown with beans would smother out. Soy beans should always be inoculated with culture or soil. They are cut after the pods form and before the leaves start to fall, while the weather is still good for haymaking.

Sudan grass makes considerable amounts of hay on good ground, but is rather low in protein. Millets make rather poor cow hay but are fairly reliable producers and will make a crop in 60 to 80 days. In the northern countries one of the millets is a surer proposition than Sudan grass.

Which president of the United States was impeached? President Andrew Johnson was impeached for usurpation of the law, corrupt use of the veto power, interference at elections and high crimes and misdemeanors. His trial was held March 30 to May 26, 1868. The vote was guilty, 36; not guilty, 9. Johnson, therefore, retained office as a two-thirds vote is necessary for removal.

Is there a limit to the amount of small change a person must take in payment of a debt? For example: If a person owed $40 and offered to pay it with nickels, could this be refused on account of not being legal tender?

In the United States, the various coins of the national mint, the notes of the United States, ordinarily called greenbacks, and a specified class of United States treasury notes are legal tender for debts of any amount. Silver dollars are a legal tender for all debts, except where otherwise expressly stipulated in the contract, while the other silver coins (the half dollar, quarter dollar and dime are a legal tender for an amount not exceeding $10. Minor coins (nickels and pennies) are tenderable for an amount not exceeding 25 cents. Therefore, notes would not be legal tender for the payment of a debt of $40.

Sanatorium Field Worker Tells Of New Laboratories

Rev. E. B. Johnson Brings News Of Tubercular Building Dedication

Rev. E. B. Johnson, field secretary of the Southwestern Presbyterian Sanatorium, Albuquerque, N. M., now visiting churches of the Shephard Presbyterian in the interests of the tuberculosis sanatorium, has brought news about the dedication of a new laboratory building addition to the institution.

The Maytag Research Laboratory for Tuberculosis, as the building will be called, was donated by F. L. Maytag. Dedication ceremonies were held on January 9 and attended by important medical men from all parts of the country.

The new laboratories, with equipment and endowment, represent an investment of $550,000. The Presbyterian Sanatorium was established August, 1908. Soon after Hugh A. Cooper, the present president of the board of directors of the sanatorium came to Albuquerque as pastor of the First Presbyterian church in that city felt the need of additional hospitalization for the tubercular sick.

The matter was presented to the Synod of New Mexico, which unanimously endorsed the proposed plan and appointed a committee to study the matter. The total assets at the present time, including lands, buildings and invested funds, are $1,110,000.

The new research laboratory building is a modern institution dedicated to the research and study of tuberculosis. In addition to the laboratory proper in the new building there are 20 guest rooms already furnished with modern metal furniture. These rooms are intended especially for guests who shall need the special service which the laboratories shall provide.

The laboratories for research of tuberculosis in the sanatorium, which is a non sectarian institution, are among the finest in the United States. It is the hope of the directors and friends of the organization that valuable contributions may be made in the treatment of tuberculosis.

Devoe Jury Fails To Reach Verdict

Jury Trying Miss Daisy Devoe For Theft Of Money, Unable To Agree

(International News Service) LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 23.—The middle-aged jury deliberating the fate of Miss Daisy Devoe, charged with theft of $15,300 from Clara Bow, whom she formerly served as secretary, still had reached no agreement today despite more than 31 hours of wrangling.

Three times in four hours the jury returned to Judge W. C. Doran's court room last night before its seven men and five women members were locked up for the night. The last time they filed in to get the court's definition of the words "permanent" and "intent". Judge Doran had used these in his instructions telling the jurors it was their duty to determine if it was Miss Devoe's intent to deprive the motion picture "It" girl permanently of her property.

Unless a verdict is arrived at by noon today Judge Doran promised he would discharge the jury.

Proposes Novel Plan To End Over-Production Of Crops

By M. F. DACEY International News Service Staff Correspondent

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 23.—Exchange of marginal farm lands for land script, with the indefinite retirement from production activities of unsuccessful farmers, is a novel solution of the problem of over-production offered by Jesse M. Oldham, of Denver, widely known throughout the west as an expert land appraiser and business man.

The federal government throughout its history has given homestead land to settlers. Untold acres of these homesteads have been turned into farming lands, many of them are now operating at a loss. So, why, asks Oldham, not turn them back to the government, cease production until the margin between production and consumption is equalized, and then there will be no surplus to harass the farmer, and no over-production to unsettle the economic structure of the country.

Oldham's plan represents several years research and has the tentative approval, he says, of several agricultural leaders and bankers in the west.

The details of Oldham's plan have been worked out to fit into existing governmental machinery so that no new legislation will be required to make it operative. No additional taxation or added governmental expenditure is involved, Oldham declared in an exclusive interview with International News Service.

Outlining his plan, Oldham said: "The problem of over-production arising from world economic changes is attacked in such a way that American farmers with marginal lands who are forced to quit production without financial loss. This is provided for by the return of the lands they now till, at a loss, to the government and receiving therefore land script, issued through governmental land offices.

"In the beginning the government gave homestead lands to settlers by issuing patents to the land, upon completion of a required time of residence and completion of improvements thereon. Upon surrender back to the government of such lands now there may be issued land script to the land owner in the amount of the value of the surrendered land.

"This may be done fairly, accurate appraisals can be assured by enlisting the services of the present land appraisal machinery of the Federal Land Banks.

"The issuing of land script would be tantamount to giving a receipt to the present owner of the land for the return of the land to the original donor—the United States government. The government would retain the lands and administer it, along with the present public domain which now consists of millions of acres.

"As the lands thus surrendered for script are certain to be needed by the coming generations, the holders of the script would have a tangible asset that would pay a small rate of interest and thus be marketable.

"Also the surrendered lands would have a revenue value to the government because of their grazing possibilities.

"Future homesteaders could acquire the land script and use it in later years for the repossession of lands that are wanted, or needed to increase production as the country grows.

"The retiring of marginal land owners in this manner would restore values to farms remaining in operation, and at the same time strengthen the financial standing of retiring farmers. When it was made clear that certain amounts of land would be retired from production, the credit and revenue of those remaining in farm production business would be greatly enhanced. Production would readily be brought more closely to consumption, and large surpluses entirely eliminated.

"As the need for increased pro-

Kaye Don Pilots Fast Speed Boat

(International News Service) LONDON, Jan. 23.—Piloting the speedboat Miss England, 11, in which Sir Henry Segrave lost his life last year, Kaye Don, famous British racing motorist, Thursday attained a speed of 100 miles an hour on one run on the waters of Lough Neagh, Ireland, according to a central news dispatch from Belfast.

Segrave died from injuries received when Miss England struck a half-submerged log and capsized on Lake Windermere last year during a speed trial, in which he was attempting to set a new record.

The powerful craft was salvaged and reconditioned, and Don has been preparing for some weeks for an official assault on the world's speedboat record. His 100-mile an hour run Thursday was unofficial.

Crowds speak in heroes.—Gerald Stanley Lee.

County Federation Of Women's Clubs

For a number of years The General Federation of Women's Clubs has been sponsoring a "Better Speech Week" in February, laying upon the hearts of this great body of women each individual's responsibility in using her influence in rescuing the language of Americans from the despoiling effects of several agencies.

The ability to express one's thoughts is an art which is a gift to a few but to others must be earned at great expense of time and mental energy. The difference between good English and bad English used in that expression of thought is the difference between the good and bad in every other art or in every mechanical, professional, or scientific achievement.

To speak correctly is not affectation. It is a worthy accomplishment. To cut the G off from every ing as we speak; to have saw things where it would have been better to have seen; to swallow the end of one's sentences reduces pitifully the effectiveness of our speech.

Poor language, ineffective language, effervescent language, profane language, prove a handicap to one who would measure up well against firmly established and time honored standards of culture. It will be a handicap too, to our children in the future when the shimmering mist of inane expressions and catch words that now blinds or at least dims our mental vision to the demands of true culture, will have passed.

The standard of culture will again stand out in finer delineation, from the comparison, when we will be relieved from the passing glint that blinded for a time. Then, how tawdry will be the language of our child who has not been taught good English and pure English.

The crusade "to eradicate hysteria and hypocrisy" which began as a passive resistance to high standards that always irk coarse minds, has swept through our literature, our art, our amusements into our schools and has reached our homes. The great mass of people have followed like sheep, only bleating for tender grass to eat in pleasant places, until we have finally stumbled over the crumbling foundations of disintegrating structures of purity.

We have adopted into our own vocabulary the off shoots of profane, vulgar language that has followed in the wake of this vicious crusade—hesitating to use the really obscure but knowing it is there, only blinking when we hear it and countenancing its use by our own near approach to the vulgar and profane terms of those who have caught the stride of the pace makers of filth.

The backwash of this tide of filth and profanity is something much more menacing than the ripples that at first seemed sparkling through startling.

The Federation has sent out the call to the federated women to become "speech conscious" for ourselves and for our children and through that means recover our own standard of culture and send out a tide of good English that will bring a purer back wash to the nation.

To you, federated women, leaders in the fine arts of humanity, has come the call to implant in the child dearest to you and in the friend closest to you, by your own example of its use, an appreciation of the beauty that lies in pure, unadulterated English.

Not only should we cultivate better speech through example but we have a right to complain if the teachers of our children are careless of their speech.

Why not keep the indicators of our intelligence up to standard and not allow them to be lowered every time a new catch word or phrase of doubtful meaning or purity flies our way?

Lincoln said:—"He who molds public opinion goes deeper than he who enacts statutes or pronounces decisions."

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

11. General Von Steuben—Appointed Inspector General

SOON AFTER HIS ARRIVAL AT VALLEY FORGE BARON VON STEUBEN WAS APPOINTED INSPECTOR GENERAL BY WASHINGTON. THE BARON AT ONCE SET TO WORK TO TRAIN THE OFFICERS AND MEN OF THE CONTINENTAL ARMY.

ON MARCH, 1778, WASHINGTON ISSUED AN ORDER TO HIS BRIGADE COMMANDERS REGARDING BARON VON STEUBEN. "THEY ARE NOT TO PRACTISE ONE SINGLE MANOEUVRE WITHOUT HIS DIRECTION, NOR IN A METHOD DIFFERENT FROM IT. ANY VIOLATION WILL PLUNGE THE ARMY AGAIN INTO THAT CONFUSION FROM WHICH IT IS ENDEAVORING TO ESCAPE."

BUT THE BARON SAW WORK TO BE DONE THAT WAS AS IMPORTANT AS DRILL. FIRST HE CLEANED UP THE CAMP AND ESTABLISHED STRICT SANITARY REGULATIONS. AT ONCE THE HEALTH OF THE MEN BEGAN TO IMPROVE.

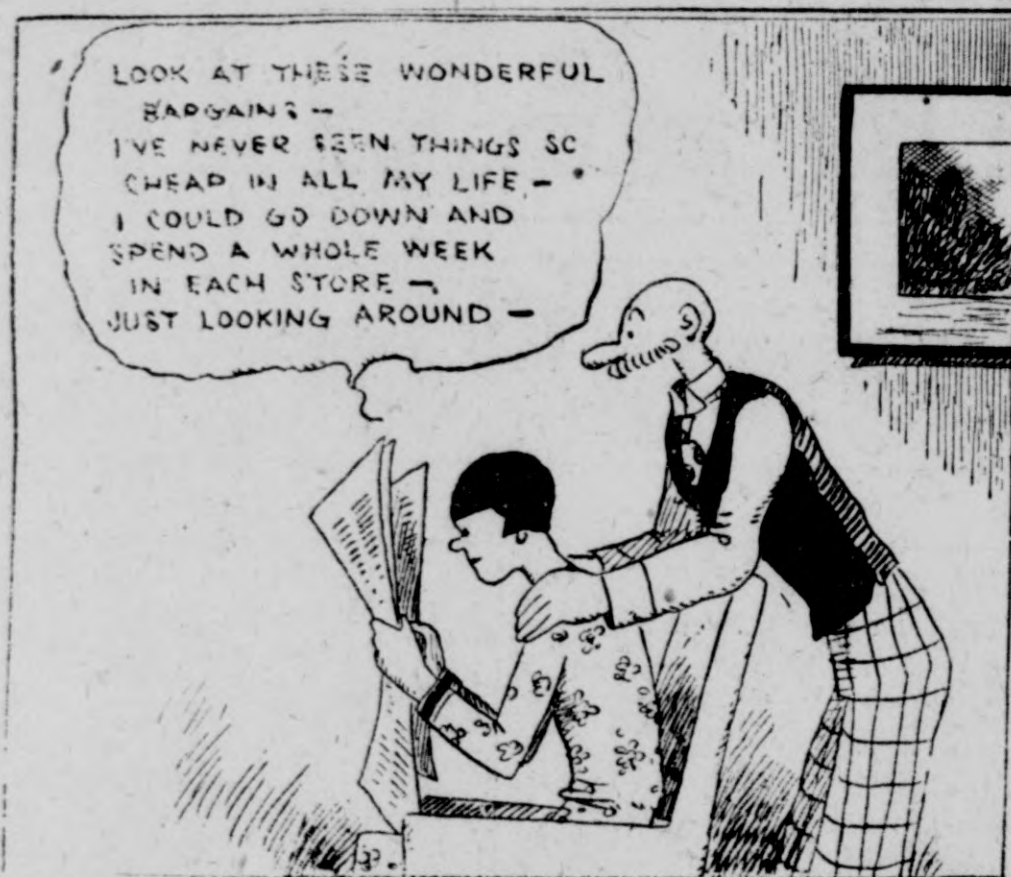

FINDING THAT LACK OF ORGANIZATION AND SYSTEM WAS LARGELY TO BLAME FOR THE CHAOTIC CONDITIONS, VON STEUBEN REQUIRED THE CAPTAINS TO USE COMPANY BOOKS TO KEEP AN ACCOUNT OF THEIR MEN AND EQUIPMENT AT ALL TIMES.

Wesley Ferrell Star Cleveland Hurler Is Among Early Holdouts

Ferrell and Eddie Morgan
Will Demand More Money From Cleveland Indians

Dazzy Vance, Babe Herman,
Lou Gehrig And Hack
Wilson Demand
More Sugar

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—The hold-out season was under way in full swing today as a result of the action of Wes Ferrell, Cleveland's star pitcher, and Eddie Morgan, batting ace of the same club, in returning their 1931 contracts to Billy Evans' unsign.

Both Ferrell and Morgan were given substantial salary increases. But realizing their importance to the club they are boldly demanding an even bigger lump of sugar.

Of course there is no doubt but that both will be in the lineup on opening day. But coming in the wake of other salary wrangles, the demand of the two Cleveland aces is an indication of the fact that big league stars are determined to horn in on the record profits rolled up by most of the baseball magnates last year.

Lyn Lary, shortstop of the New York Yankees, also returned his contract a day or two ago because he thought he deserved a larger increase than was offered him. Lary evidently figures that Bill Werber, the classy recruit who came up from Duke University last year, has little chance of supplanting him.

Vance and Herman. And then there are the old reliables, Dazzy Vance and Babe Herman of the Brooklyn.

Vance is said to be considerably peeved at the club's action in tendering him a one-year document the other day calling for $20,000. Dazzy wants a two-year contract at $25,000 per annum.

The Brooklyn club is not worried about Herman because the officials know that Babe would rather play ball than eat. Lou Gehrig of the Yankees is another alleged holdout who is too fond of the game to remain out of the fold for long.

Hack Wilson, home run king of the National league, has just denied he wants $40,000, as reported. The Cub slugger committed a technical error in denying anything. It's much easier to come down than to go up, as the guy in the parachute remarked.

The St. Louis Cardinals expect to have trouble signing Chick Hafey. Al Simmons, the only star of the Athletics who is unsigned, probably will prove to be the most stubborn holdout of the lot. The new American league batting champion did not come to terms last spring until batting practice for the opening game was under way.

Unhurt In Crash, He Dies Of Fright

(International News Service)

WINNEMUCA, Nev. Jan. 23.—When the car in which he was riding was struck by a train, Otis Diess railroad employe, died of shock.

He received no injuries, although his car was carried 1200 feet down the track. Physicians were of the opinion that fright caused the man's death. He was dead when the train crew reached him.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

LIFE INVESTMENT

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 23.—The $3 which Robert Chapman, 29, paid for a license to marry Laura Chaney was all the money he had and it took him several months to save it, he told Deputy Clerk Mercedes McNeely. "But," he added, "it's well spent, isn't it?" Anyway, it's a life-time investment.

Crushed By Backing Truck, Man Dies

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Jan. 23.—Pinned between an automobile truck and a building, George Erb, 45, suffered injuries today which caused his death in a hospital. Erb had descended from the backing truck to aid his brother, E. F. Erb, in unloading coal and had stepped to the rear of the machine to place a block against one wheel. He was married.

Spying On Sports

by BILL RITT

Central Press Sports Editor Something or somebody must have temporarily sidetracked that dramatic drive of Mickey Walker, middleweight champion of everywhere but Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's domain, for a bout for the world's heavyweight crown. It doesn't read so loud in the papers any more.

Sometime ago, you will recall, Mickey's manager, the good Dr. Jack Kearns, started matching Mickey with sundry heavyweights of the third and sixth class (Jack Dempsey's ratings). All went well with the Rumson, N. J., bulldog. He trimmed Johnny Risko and kayoed K. O. Christner among other accomplishments.

Now, however, the Mick's heavyweight campaign seems to have struck a snag, and report is that he will attempt to take on a few light-heavies, a class which he heretofore ignored.

The answer is that heavyweights of the second class, who were to have been Mickey's next stepping stones to a title bout, have been showing a great deal of indifference to his challenges.

Not exactly in need of the coin to be picked up by battling Walker, such heavies as Primo Carnera, Tuffy Griffith and Jack Sharkey can see no advantage in tussling with the middle champ.

Then, too, Kearns had hoped his charge would be able to meet Schmeling in the sought for title the career of the late Bob Fitzsimmons and return to lesser but more familiar fields. It might do him some good.

CATTLE RUSTLERS USE

TRUCKS IN THEFTS

SLIM BUTTES, S. D., Jan. 23.—Cattle rustling in the Slim Buttes country is worse today than it was in the old wild west days, Abe Jones pioneer rancher declares.

"In the old days we used to lose an occasional cow or half a dozen calves to rustlers, but the modern rustlers are much worse. Using trucks, they can carry away many calves at a time and be hundreds of miles away before we miss them," Jones said.

Jones has been in the Slim Buttes country since 1886, when he took up a claim after coming west to prospect for gold in the Black Hills.

BEER FOR HEALTH,

SLOGAN OF FRENCH

(International News Service) PARIS Jan. 23.—"Drink more beer and keep healthy" is the new slogan of French brewers, who quote eminent doctors in their announcement.

"Beer is necessary to the human system," reads the statement accompanying this slogan. "Even as far back as 1626 it was discovered that beer refreshes, quenches thirst and nourishes."

"Beer must be drunk continually and regularly," the text continues. "Barely alcoholic it is rich in vitamins and stimulates physical resistance against the cold weather."

Harvey, Invading British Middleweight, Has Giant Forearms

By JACK SORDS
Central Press Sports Cartoonist
Though a middleweight his forearms are bigger than either Jack Dempsey's or Gene Tunney's.
He trains, or tea, cigars, Welsh rarebit and foamy, amber beer.
He doesn't jab and grab like many other English boxers.
He has kayoed 200 opponents in 350 tries.
Though beaten in his first start over here he is rated as having a swell chance to become world middleweight champion some day.

That, fellow citizens, is a close-up view of Len Harvey, slugging, colorful British middleweight "hope" now in America seeking the triple F's—fight, fame and fortune.
Harvey's forearms are really remarkable. They measure 14 inches around while such huskies as Dempsey and Tunney measured just a bit over 13. Jack Sharkey's forearm measures 13 inches and Bill Stribling's a quarter-inch less.
Len built up those arms by working as a polisher of pianos, then autos before he arrived as a boxer.

And don't think he doesn't know how to use them! Boring in, he takes advantage of his weighty lunch grabbers by tying up his foe's left with his right and letting the other fellow backstop for his own right mitt.
Harvey has been fighting since he was 12 years old. He was a star bout kid when Jack Berg, the highly regarded British lightweight was a preliminary boy. Battling for 10 years, Harvey has fought 23 bouts of 20 rounds duration and in his 350 scraps has had his eyes blackened

NEW YORK STOCKS

Market Quiet And Firm Around Noon Hour Period

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Thursday's closing spurt in the Industrial stocks and Specialties was carried into the first period today and new advances of a point or two were recorded in a number of the favorites. The bulls had the advantage of a distinctly better tone in industry and trade and were determined to press their advantage against the short interest in Auburn Auto, Westinghouse, General Electric and United States Steel. Bethlehem and "Big Steel" rose more than a point each, in spite of the recent uncomplimentary estimates of their last quarter 1930 net earnings. The official report of U. S. Steel earnings and dividend action on the stock will be made public next Tuesday and the Bethlehem report on Thursday. Meanwhile Bethlehem moved up today to 51, for a gain of 1%. Even if the dividend is cut to $4 a share, the stock will still yield 8 per cent at the current price.

Allied Chemicals sold up 4 points at 157. General Motors rose about a point to 38 1/2, in continuation of the move started on Monday. Electric power led the advance in the popular Utilities, advancing 1 1/2 to 47. Columbia Gas, Consolidated North American and other Utilities sold at the best levels of the year. United Corporation at 20 1/2 passed above its previous resistance points. Stock sales in the first half hour were approximately 450,000 shares, an increase of 200 per cent from the dog-days sessions of Monday and Tuesday. The market as a whole was quiet and firm around the noon period.

Grand Jury Finds True Bill In Fraudulent Conversion Charge

MERCER, Jan. 23.—Among the true bills returned by the grand jury today, was that against Michael Bobby, prominent politician and real estate dealer, charging fraudulent conversion.

It is charged that Bobby who was treasurer of the Slovak Club of Farrell at 166 and Eastman Kodak was up 3 at 157. General Motors rose about a point to 38 1/2, in continuation of the move started on Monday. Electric power led the advance in the popular Utilities, advancing 1 1/2 to 47. Columbia Gas, Consolidated North American and other Utilities sold at the best levels of the year. United Corporation at 20 1/2 passed above its previous resistance points. Stock sales in the first half hour were approximately 450,000 shares, an increase of 200 per cent from the dog-days sessions of Monday and Tuesday. No Action Taken On Reeves' Motion

Councilman Reeves today offered a motion at the session which was not seconded, in which he asked that the board of revision give to all other wards the same treatment accorded the Second ward.

Colleagues told Reeves that all other wards had been accorded a time to make appeals which had been made and that the board had acted upon them.

They pointed out the large increase in Second ward assessments necessitated the action taken in regard to the Second ward.

His colleagues pointed out that no one had been refused the right of appeal and to go all over the wards again would be utterly impossible and leave the city without tax payments until summer time.

Jury Still Out In Damage Case

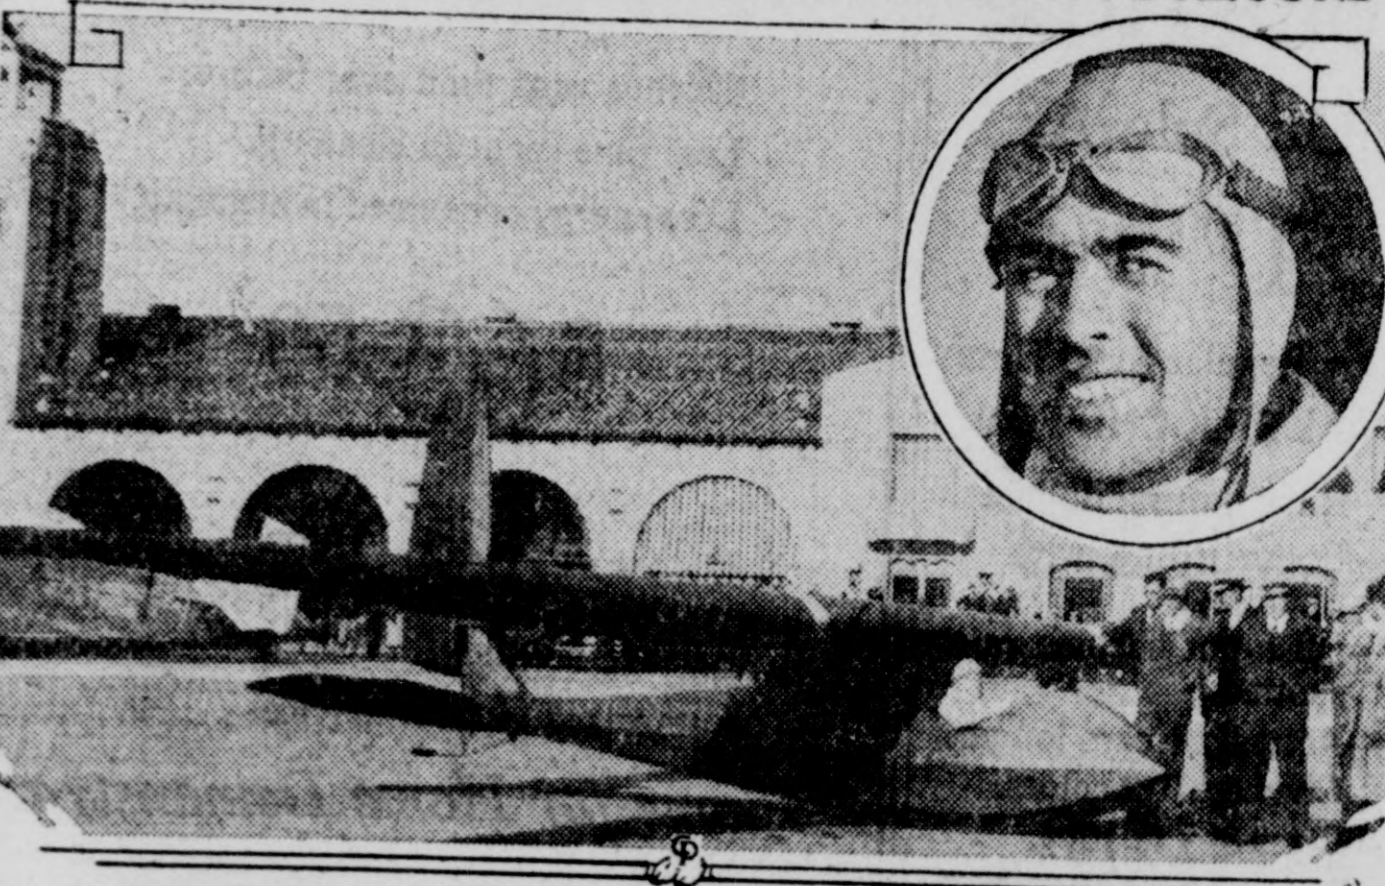

In the case of Zena and Demetre Zuk against Anna Small and Julia Karlik, in which the plaintiffs are seeking damages from defendants as a result of a beating that is alleged to have been administered to Mrs. Zuk, the jury retired about 10 o'clock this morning after arguments and a charge by Judge Chambers. At 2 o'clock this afternoon the jury had not yet arrived at a verdict.

He recently flew the largest glider ever constructed from the summit of Mt. Verdugo, across the mountains, into Glendale, Cal. Photo at top shows the 64-foot craft at the end of its historic flight. Move Started To Law In Congress

Would Remove Restrictions Placed Upon Doctors Giving Prescriptions

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The first step to liberalize the Volstead act in conformity with the Wickensham commission's report on prohibition was taken today when Senator Copeland (D) of New York for health commissioner of New York City, introduced a bill freeing physicians from all restrictions on prescriptions for medicinal liquor.

The bill would remove the statutory limit on prescriptions fixed by the Volstead act, as well as the restriction on quantity. It further would eliminate the present requirement for a physician to specify the ailment requiring liquor. These changes were recommended by the Wickensham commission.

Similar measures were introduced in the house yesterday.

Equalization To Satisfy Grossman

Dr. Louis Grossman, winter avenue, today appeared before city council relative to an assessment on his property.

Council showed him the assessment as fixed and notified him he will have an opportunity of appearing at the revision board of Second ward appeals.

The physician said: "I am not objecting if other assessments are the same."

Council ordered that a note be appended to the Grossman assessment so that it would not be forgotten when the hearing is held.

During the session Mr. Reeves offered a motion the assessment be reduced.

"We cannot do this here. We are not acting as a board of revision," replied Mayor Gillespie and Councilman Burns.

Erie County May Not Get Hospital

(International News Service)
ERIE, Pa., Jan. 23.—Erie county's prospects for the construction of a new tuberculosis hospital in 1931 were considered "nil" today after the county commissioners adopted a resolution against the proposed construction at their meeting here.

Two reasons, embodying the county's heavy debts at the present time, which would necessitate borrowing from banks and an injunction obtained by the Erie County Editors.

Morrow Again Has Gold-Piece Charm He Figured 'Gonner'

Constable Rolla B. Morrow of the fourth ward might have been $2.50 poorer today had Mont McFate, pilot of an East Side trolley not been alert and efficient in the dispatch of his duties.

Morrow lost the $2.50 gold chain which he carries for a charm while riding to town the other morning. McFate, looking over his car, found it soon after and in about an hour when Morrow called headquarters he was told McFate had found the charm.

The charm may have been found by someone else, returned, then again it might've not.
